In the time of your life, live; so that in that wondrous time you shall not add to the misery and sorrow of the world, but shall smile to the infinite delight and mystery of it.

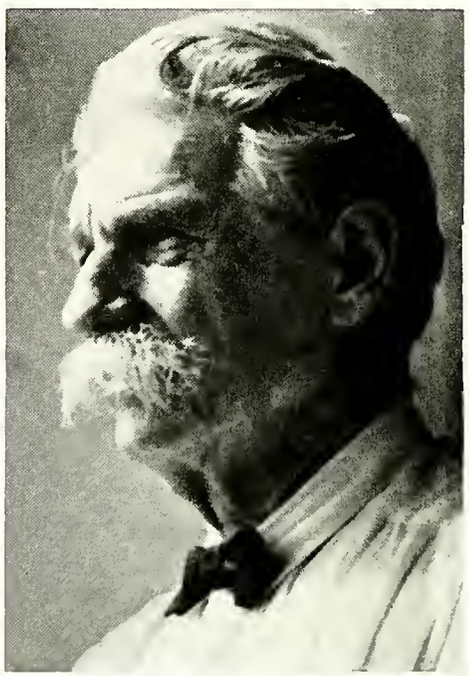
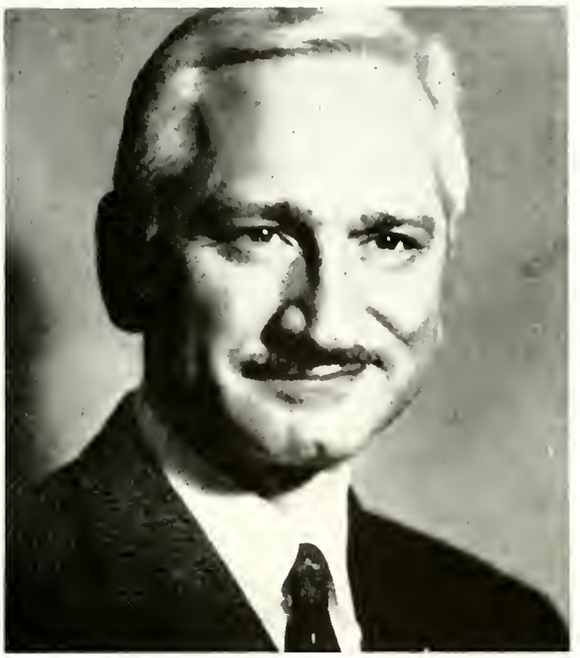
IT IS A TIME TO FORM IDEALS AND SET GOALS...

The worthiest lives are those which set and pursue the highest standards. Discovering what is worth prizing, honoring, and valuing is essential for those who succeed.

John F. Kennedy, President of the United States, is an example of a young man who saw his goals in youth.



This amazing jungle doctor, Abert Schweitzer, has dedicated his life to the service of mankind.



Cincinnati scientist, Albert Sabin, attained a goal which has been his for years: to create an effective oral polio vaccine.

The spirit of America is transposed into blends of rhythm, melody, and harmony by Leonard Bernstein, one of the most versatile musicians of our age.

Creating a philosophy entirely his own, Robert Frost, America's past unofficial poet laureate, understood the grief, mystery, and joy of life.

Conquering the problems which face women in public life, Clare Boothe Luce established herself as dramatist, as legislator, and as the first woman ambassador to Italy.

"Studies serve for delight, for ornament, and for ability. They perfect nature; and are perfected by experience...."

These words of Francis Bacon offer insight into the nature of learning.

IT IS A TIME TO Study

"Are my eyes seeing things?" In plane geometry class Marilyn Dole discovers the puzzling distortions of an optical illusion.

Deep in his subject, Pat Thomas finds that research can be both exciting and rewarding. He begins to appreciate the value of study and to learn how much there is he doesn't know.

IT IS A TIME TO Learn ...Learning, a lively process, involves the pupil in an exciting game in which he cannot lose if he performs enthusiastically. Alert students welcome the opportunities for learning which the school provides.

Learning by debate and discussion, students in Mr. Hopping's modern history class apply their knowledge to a timely issue—the space race.

Business majors learn many skills to help them in the future. Pat and Nancy tackle the I.B.M. machine and typewriter.

Miss O'Hara and her student teacher instruct their Spanish class in the language laboratory, which is also used by seven other West High teachers.

Rush her to the hospital? No need! These girls have matters all under control as they practice their new first aid skills.

Experimentation is the tool of Charles Jung in the quest for scientific truth.

Nancy Nelson and Pam Hyde find that one way to appreciate art is to put their own talents to work.

IT IS A TIME TO Appreciate...the beauty of the world, the skill of a workman, the soaring cadences of music, the hum of a motor, the thrill of a searching mind.

Developing an appreciation of the fine art of printing, boys gain skill and knowledge for a vocation or hobby.

In September Mr. Bruce Burkley came to Western Hills as composer-in-residence for the Cincinnati schools. Working with Mr. Brady and pupils, Mr. Burkley became oriented to the musical talents of teenagers.

A variety of paperbacks delight and surprise eager West Hi students interested in good books.

Listening to a Leonard Bernstein record, Dane Mitchell, Pat Abel, and Gene Enders develop a sense of appreciation for the soft sounds of the strings and the brisk notes of the brass. This music, played by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, encourages the orchestra to its best development.

IT IS A TIME TO Understand

our language, our culture, our democracy...our universe. Ours is to comprehend, to gain new insight into our world. Life gives us a challenge to understand ourselves.

Chip Land's report on Maurice Utrillo adds interest to class studies of French culture.

Preparing slides of blood specimens, physiology students, M. Rowland, G. Hardesty, and B. Rehme gain an understanding of the composition of blood.

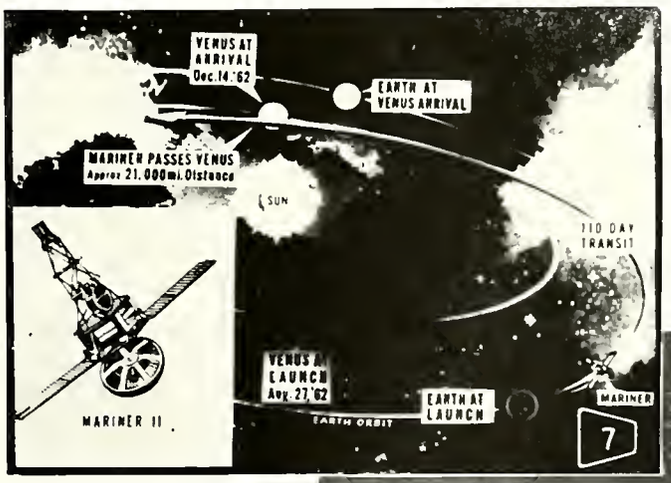
To understand most areas of modern living, one must first understand his own language. English classes explore semantics, finding that word meanings depend on our interpretation.

IT IS A TIME TO Adjust ...A complex society, rapidly changing, requires adjustments. Western Hills students learned, this year, how to adjust to a new lunch schedule, a crowded school, and a nine bell day.

Giving a report to her Socio-Economic class on the circular flow of money, Lynn Newcomer points out needs for adjustment in our economic system.

It's all yours boys! Mr. Shackelford gives instructions on lights, switches, and buttons to Greg Koppenhoefer and Don Crease, two of the language lab technicians.

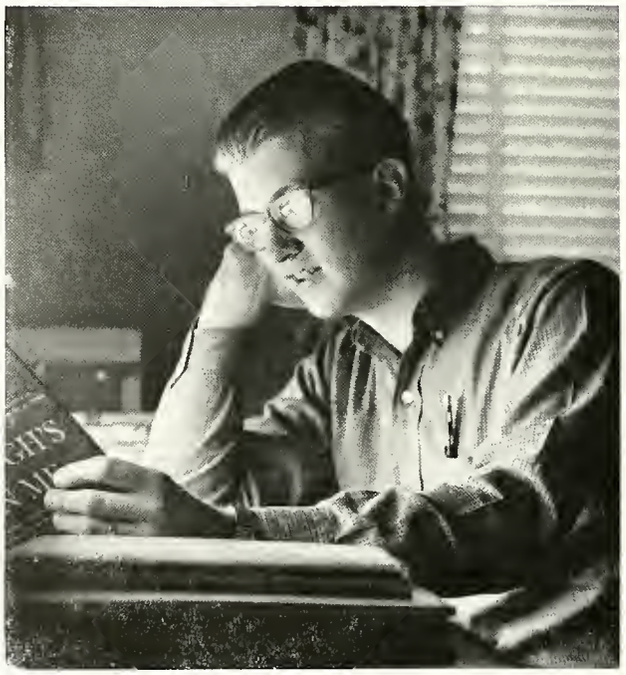
The enlarged auditorium study hall presented a true challenge to adjust.



The exploration of space, the science of astronomy-both depend upon exact mathematical calculation.

You needn't be a mathematical genius to adjust to the new math in tenth grade.

IT IS A TIME TO Enjoy...all that life has to offer: great novels...laughter with good friends... working with the hands...the simple and genuine pleasures that help us live.



Relaxing at his desk, Phil Berghausen finds that a good book can be a great source of satisfaction for the one who seeks enjoyment.

Miss Suter's classes become social-minded as they prepare to serve and entertain their mothers as at Mothers' Day tea.

Making a colorful burlap and yarn tapestry, Kay Chaman and Connie Frey sense the joy of creating.

From the first time a boy learns to enjoy the feel of wood and tools in the growing strength and skill of his hands, he see his time turn into useful ends.

IT IS A TIME TO Discover ...Columbus, Perry, John Glenn...

each followed the magic call of discovery.

It beckons no less to West Hi students...it leads to quiet libraries, to language labs, to science experiments...to the art of living itself.

As the mushroom cloud of the atom bomb surged forth, people realized the need for a way to control its power.

Joanie is charged with enthusiasm (and maybe a few electrons too!) as she demonstrates the effects of electricity.

Broadening her discoveries in the world of home economics, Betty Krimpleman decides a knowledge of domestic skills will always be beneficial in her future career and home life.

"Hablo, hablas, habla!" Ken Hall, Spanish student, discovers the worth and fascination of the new language laboratory.

IT IS A TIME TO Think

This is the turning time of life, the time when youth turns to think...

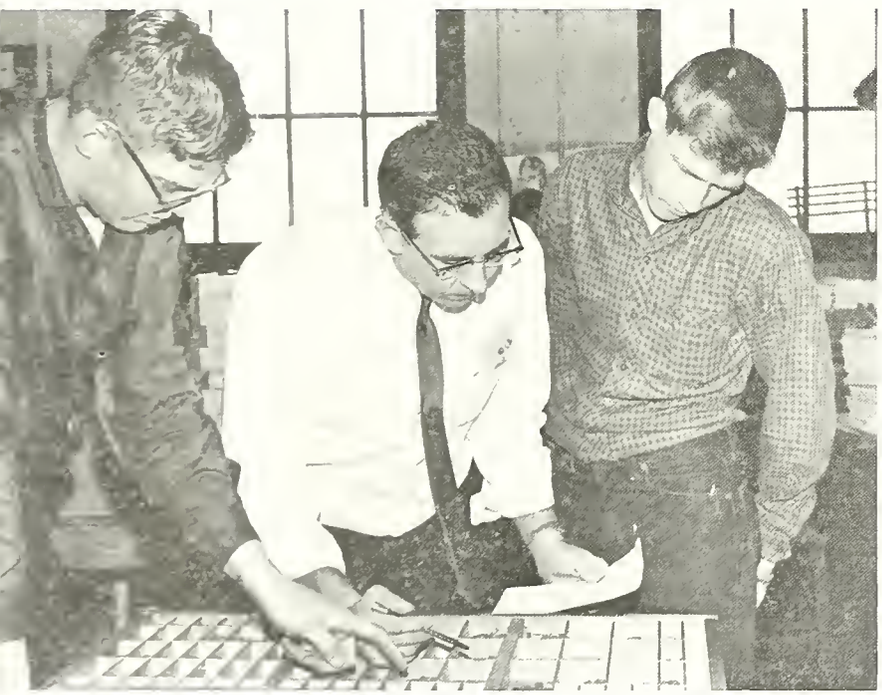
about things and about people...

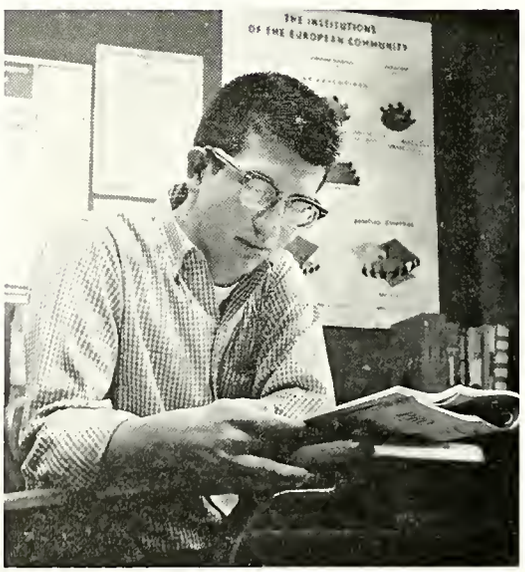
about the world and himself...

about privilege and responsibility...

about life and the future.



Concentration plays a central part in setting up type. Mr. Wollenhaupt guides two prospective printers through a myriad of type to a finished block of print.



Bill Ballmeyer directs his thoughts toward the challenging problems of the Common Market in our world today.

This is our goal: To realize the importance of serious thinking and diligent study in all our efforts to become the new American citizen of tomorrow.

With the onset of spring, students retreat to the out-of-doors. Studying quietly or chatting with friends, they soak up the warm sunlight.

Master your studies with a deft hand and an appraising eye; yet

"pause awhile from letters to be wise"...

...for the laughter in your eyes and the joy in your heart come from a life lived vibrantly each minute, a life full of the vigor of activity and the warm grasp of friendship.

Live then, with love and laughter.

Live with Love and Laughter

In the midst of summer school, workmen gave West High a face lifting. New steps, new lights, and a P.A. system were part of the treatment.

Inside and outside, in class or extracurricular activities, in this time of your life — LIVE. Cheer for the school team; enjoy new fads; welcome new ideas. Work with vigor. Be alert, watching all that occurs. Join clubs; lead them successfully. Be enthusiastic! This is your lively, spirited, high school life—LIVE IT FULLY!

Hesitatingly, Joanne Fellons succumbs to the allurement of the newest fad, wig hats.

West Hi

Apples, oozing with nuts and caramel, tempt two famished girls to neglect their well-planned diets.

Gingerly taking one of the tempting creations off the racks, Joanne tries it on, almost afraid to view the results.

Ah. The effect is marvelous! Joanne admires herself and thinks of the hit she will be at school tomorrow.

Mad Hatters invade the school arousing spirit with their Mustang Booster Hats.

Who will be "Miss Package Plan"? Bonnie Berauer, Carolyn Hughes, and Evelyn Groning aspire for the cherished crown.

Package Plan radiates

The Package Plan Assembly kicked off another year of activities and fun. This year's assembly, viewed by a few and heard by the rest on our new intercom system, presented a pleasant variation of the 'Miss America Pageant." The royal contestants included such favorites as Miss Cheviot, Miss Athletics, Miss Price Hill, Miss Annual, Miss Breeze, and Miss Saylor Park. Before a panel of carefully selected judges the contestants displayed their charms and talents as laughter, surprise, music, and applause accompanied their skits. Finally came the proclamation that Miss Annual, Miss Breeze, and Miss Athletics were to share the coveted crown.

Judging the mad-cap "Miss Package Plan" assembly are these solemn and erudite justices: Dick Langston, Stevie Chenoweth, and Grant Meinders.

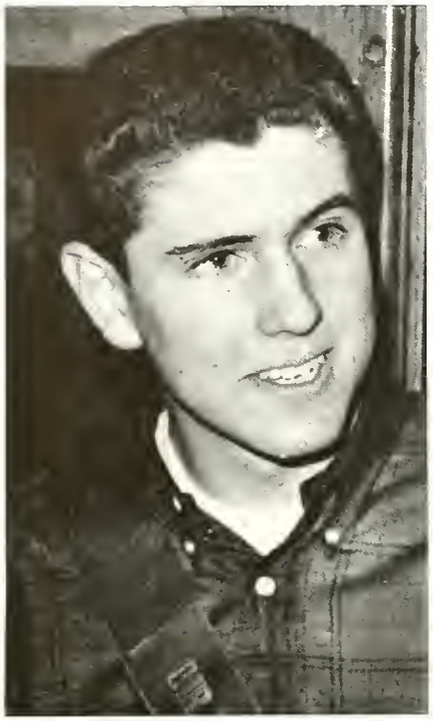
West Hi sports enthusiasts exuberantly herald the entry of their candidate "Miss Athletics"!

assembly sparkle

"Breezing Along With The Breeze" is the motto of the spirited Breeze musicians; M. Selm, R. Harsham, B. Hamman, and B. Longhauser.

Stunning in her Paris original, Miss Breeze, Leslie Redman, receives her new crown from pages, Peggy St. John and Alice Maxwell.

For the Package Plan assembly "Miss Annual's" many-sided personality is split, psychoanalyzed and revealed in a clever skit. Annual staff members who planned and produced the skit are Dohrman, Byers, Judy Bernet, Tom Hull, Maryjane Henderson, Bill Ryan.

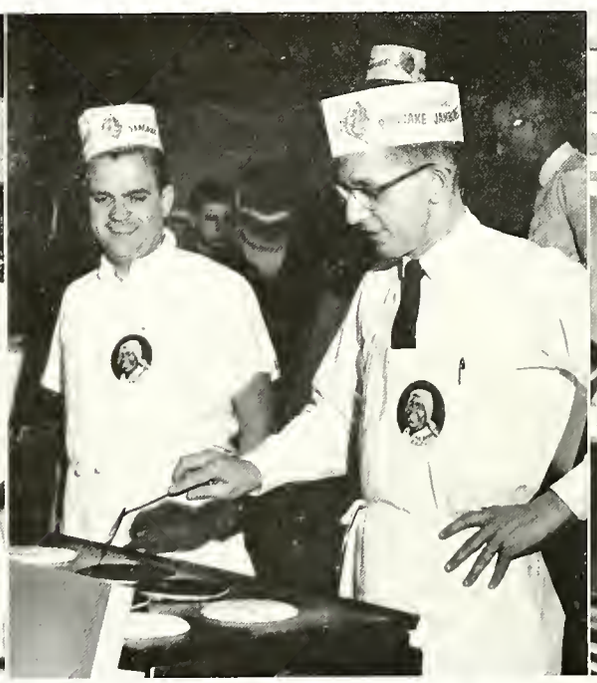


Pleasure and pride await Tom Jochum as the new holder of the "Mr. Western Hills" title.

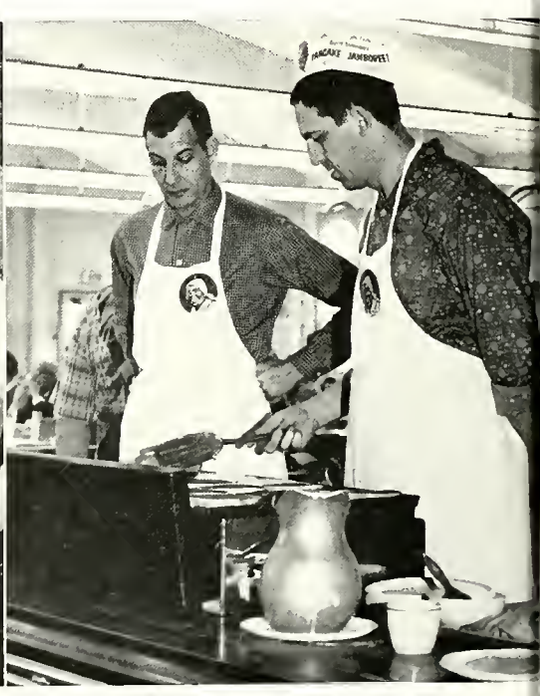
Enjoying the honor of being West Hi's first sophomore class officers are Pres. Mike Morton, Vice Pres. Fred Meier, Sec. Judy Gittinger, and Treas. Jamie Geiringer.

"Isn't the batter a little too thin?"

"We must be right; they're even browning nicely".



"Careful, now; don't flip those things too high".



Leisure time? It's a rarity for West Hi Pupils.

Leisure time? What's that? West High students and parents caught in a spinning whirl of activities, find that most "spare" moments are filled with bustling turmoil. Keeping up with the lastest dances at a Friday night canteen, working long hours on the Breeze, practicing with the band for the final football game, making exotic costumes for Bandwagon, and attending the many monthly PTA meetings: these are only several of the multitudinous activities which keep West High people continually busy.

Dancing the "Twist" may have drawbacks, like sore torsos, but who would want to trade that lively rhythm for an easy chair?

Light golden pancakes fit for a GAA president.

National Roller Skating Champion for six years, Jerry Schwartz is literally buried by his trophies and medals.

"'Hi, Nancy,' 'Hi Helen.'" the phones buzz, as everyone gets in on the latest story in Sweet Apple. With this scene, the delightful play "Bye Bye Birdie" began.

"Bye Bye Birdie" bubbles with abandon.

Rosie (Sandi Moore) expresses her feeling for Albert in a song and dance routine to "One Boy."

Mike Morton advises Sad Girl Jane Tieman to "Put on a Happy Face."

"Watch out Conrad!" Hugo swings to defend the honor of his steady, Kim.

"Who needs eggs for breakfast? All I ever have is beer!" exclaims Conrad Birdie (Larry Langdon) on his first morning with the amazed MacAfee family.

"You have the touch of a sex-starved cobra!" Mr. Whiteside is beset by Miss Preen's cold and clammy hands.

Comedy staged in the theatre-in-the-round

An exciting highlight for Western Hills dramatists this year, was the presentation in the Theater-in-the Round of "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Adapting themselves to the requirements of this type of theater, the cast gained profitable experience. The action of the comedy focused around Sheridan Whiteside (John Jones) a famous radio personality, who was laid up with a broken hip at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley (John Goldfuss and Sally Kocher). Further plot complications were presented when Mr. Whiteside's secretary, Maggie Cutler (Linda Heisel), was thwarted in her romance with the local reporter Bert Jefferson (Mike Morton) in the advances of the attractive actress Lorraine Sheldon (Sandi Moore). Additional supporting actors included Dave Sales, Ed Erickson, Judy Thomas, Dick Langston, Donna Langdon, George Zorick, Greg Kehrer and Ann Rush.

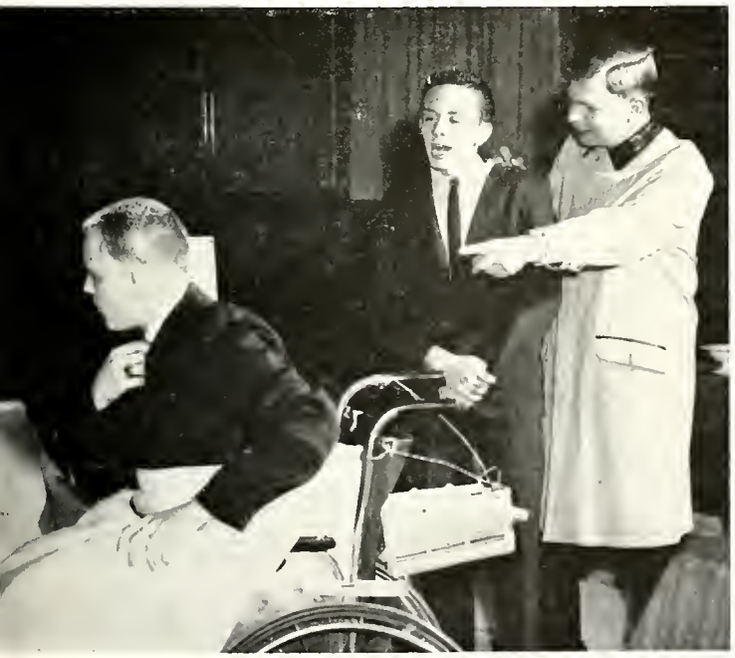
Start of chaos in the Stanley household: the downstairs appearance of the famous Mr. Whiteside in a wheelchair, after two bedridden weeks.

"Three hundred dollars for a monthly phone bill, unbelievable!" The outraged Mr. Stanley cannot arouse his wife, who is hunting for roaches, nor can he impress the distinguished Mr. Whiteside.

Shouting complaints, issuing orders —the chief pastime of Whiteside.

Hands off, Lorraine! Don't try anything. I love Bert—I'll marry him if he'll have me.

"Oh heavens! It couldn't happen again, not to us!" cries the Stanley household as grief, gloom and despair again descends upon their home when Mr. Whiteside breaks his hip a second time.



Beverly Carlton, Banjo, and Mr. Whiteside had to get Lorraine out of the way but the question was—how to get her into the mummy case!

Showtime from the living room of "The Man Who Came to Dinner" set is a hair raising experience for those concerned.

"Oh! The yellow is just atrocious! I think that . . ." Linda Heisel, Annual Staff co-editor, frantically explains another of her illuminating ideas to the bewildered but interested group: Miss Weber, Annual Staff advisor, Mrs. Goodfellow, art advisor, and Richard Maschmeyer, Linda's able co-editor.

Annual staff combines work with fun

Work nights remembered for their fun and activity were a chief means of meeting Annual Staff deadlines this year. "Please pass the pickles . . . here's a finished caption . . . where's the head for page 22?" Rooms 202 and 212 were vibrating hubs of activity connected by a life line of staffers during these busy deadlines sessions.

Striving to maintain an "All-American" yearbook rating is the challenging goal for each new Western Hills Annual Staff. As the final deadline approaches, every staff member is called upon to produce interesting and acceptable material under pressure.

Pails of paste, miles of photos, and hours of patient labor enmesh A. Rafferty, L. Bushman, D. Eckert, S. Kamp, and J. Thomas.

Oddles of paper, plenty of discarded ideas . . . Barb Kohl's fantic efforts amuse editors Donna Schneeman, Bobbi Uctman, and Judy Anderson.

"That's a typewriter?" cries Mr. Love as Barb Boyd, Judy Bernet, and Janice Eshman put to use the annual's oldest relic during those hectic copy rush days.

Let's get all of that copy completed. It's due today! Journalism students work frantically on captions, copy, and heads to meet the coming deadlines.

"Oh, so many candles—I'm only thirty nine!" jokes Mr. Benson with some of his party givers, J. Ruehl, M. Henderson, T. Hull, L. Kaemmerle, and S. Maish.

Bill Ryan had to squeeze through a hole, and wriggle on his tummy to snap a picture of the study hall for page twenty-five.

Thumbing through the "Breeze bible" for story ideas are Breeze co-editors, Jo Ann Fellons, Linda Raaf, and their sponsor, Miss Walters.

In the last minute rush before presstime, feature editor, Gayle Parker and business manager Yvonne Creech discuss ad layouts for the dummy.

Meeting the deadline — the goal of Breeze editors

"Don't go near 113. It's press day!" Breeze Press Day is the most hectic of a series of events which involves the time and efforts of teachers, staff members and Journalism Class reporters. First, assignments are made; people are interviewed; stories are written; editorials are chosen; pictures are taken; material is typed; and, on press day, everything is sent to the printer. Galley proofs returned, page layouts are devised; everything is pasted in place and sent again to the printer. After receiving page proofs and adding final touches, the staff once more returns proofs to the printer. A few days later an entertaining and informative issue of The Western Breeze hits the market and students rush to read the latest news while advisor, Miss Walters, and editors are planning the next Breeze.

Madly searching for a better word or for correct spelling are copy editors, Leslie Redman and Barb Aufdenberg, and copyreader, Jeanne Arns.

Busily distributing copies of the "Breeze" are Tillie Dall, the exchange editor, and Bill Hamman and Rick Harsham, "Breeze" photographers.

Fitting a tedious job to this new setting, Sherry Ott, Mike Selm, Bob Longhauser and Sharon Sallee enjoy a pasting party.

Student Council officers Lynn Kaemmerle, Tom Lange, Lou Bauer, and Judy Bernet recently visited Ohio U. for a Student Council Workshop.

Student Council promotes school activities.

To guide students, to serve the school, and to form a connection between the principal and students — these are the main objectives of Student Council. In training for their responsibilities, officers Tom Lange, Judy Bernet, Lynn Kaemmerle, and Lou Bauer spent a week of comprehensive study at Ohio University. After returning to West High, they joined the members in carrying out such projects as the clothing drive and clean-up campaign. A suggestion from the office prompted the clean-up campaign, which encompassed an all-school assembly, homeroom suggestions, and a display in the front hall. The results were amazing. Supplementing the overall work of Student Council, the Student-Teacher-Parent Board met twice monthly to talk over problems with key parents.

Joan Ingram discovers she can't always be poised while responsible for bulletin boards.

Lou Bauer, Dick Maschmeyer, Marbeth Whitney, and Carolyn Seitz enjoy contributing their time to Student Council's annual Thanksgiving clothing drive.

School spirit, social clubs, student attire, clean up week—all these and more are the subjects viewed, interpreted, and discussed by the Student-Teacher-Parent Board. At this meeting, students and Mr. Chesley listen to a suggestion from Mr. and Mrs. Curry and Mr. and Mrs. Mathias.

Christmas without a tree wouldn't be Christmas—at least, not at West High. For Paula Hutchens, Lloyd Takao, and Sandy Reece, half the fun is in trimming the sweetly scented tree which decorates the front hall.

Are you a litter or scatterbug? Mend your ways and help keep West High clean with S. Marsh, J. Glazer, K. McElroy, and J. Greiser.

It's "le twist"! French clubbers, L. Heisel, J. Ruehl, L. Redman, L. Wichman and M. Baker find rock'n roll is the same everywhere.

Language clubs enjoy foreign games and customs

Forgetting for an afternoon the rivalaries and quarrels about the natural superiority of French art, German industry, Latin grammar and Spanish dancing, the foreign language clubs adopted each other's customs at an interlingual Christmas party. There, colorful pinatas released torrents of hard candies for everyone and each club sang a traditional favorite Christmas Carol in French, German, Latin, or Spanish. In the months following, each club enriched its knowledge of culture by enjoying non-classroom activities that made the language more fun to learn. Scrabble quickened the students' ability to think in Spanish and increased the vocabulary of players. Celebrating Mardi Gras, the French Club journeyed to Walnut Hills to view a play. The school-spirited Latin Club sold badges and Mustang cowboy hats for football games and presented an original play for the Classics Club.

Not the Twist—it's the Spanish Club Cha-Cha

One, two, three, swing! Breaking a pinata isn't easy, but, oh, what goodies will follow!

The cast members are: FRONT: Spickard, Kukainis. CENTER: Brown, Hurlburt. Hurst, Hyland, Mrs. Spickard. BACK: Rost, Thielen, Ratchford, Schaetzle, Allen.

The tyrant, Nero, comes to life in a play produced by the Latin Club for the members of the Cincinnati Classics Club.

"Ole!" Claude Rost swings madly for a wild hit at the pinata.

It's a mad, wild scramble for the goodies when the pinata has finally been broken.

With the "Twilight Twirl" quickly approaching, hectic planning awaits the industrious Jr. Student Council officers Bill Karas, Barb Jones, Cheryl Lake, Tim Peters.

Be a joiner—enter the Members of the National Junior Honor Society, Donald O'Connor, Judy Kulstad, Jon Robin Parr, Sharon Ramsey, and Wayne Eccard are receiving their pins from Mr. Goodpastor, sponsor.

In the realm of "little West High" there is social independence; and the stronger power, senior high, strangely enough doesn't mind. Instead of entering into an apethetic existence, our junior high elects its own leaders; it fights its own battles with separate athletic squads; it solves its own problems and keeps its curriculum in balance with a Junior Student Council. Young Einste'ns do not clamor to get into the senior high Math Club; instead, they have formed their own Digits Club. The seventh, eighth, and ninth graders also have their own page in the newspaper, a chapter of the National Junior Honor Society, and other clubs such as the Y-Teens and the Seventh and Eighth Grade French Club. This little country is not completely self-centered for the Senior High finally reaps the rewards of their work.

Having a life-sized hockey field makes it easier for the Digits to work problems.

gay club whirl

Junior high editors, B. Findlay, J. Kulstad, B. Jones, and T. Peters, compare their Breeze page with an old city paper.

Among the many exciting programs given by the Seventh and Eighth Grade French Club was an enthralling show in which all of the classes made their own puppets to practice the art of conversational French.

Using soda straws in a delightful game, Y-Teens share pleasure and fellowship.

Worldly events examined by JCWA

Jr. Council on World Affairs is an organization for students who are genuinely interested in international relations. Under the guidance of Mr. Batistone, the council sponsored two seminars this year: "Our Image Abroad," and "Current Events of the World." The regular meetings included discussions, debates, and films. These activities combined to fulfill the aim of Jr. Council on World Affairs which is to offer each student a chance to voice his opinions.

Mr. George Emmich, who toured Russia for three weeks, brings this Iron Curtain country to members of Junior Council on World Affairs.

Y-Teens strive for fellowship

The goal of Y-Teens — to build a fellowship of women and girls — was carried out in many ways this year. The first was an annual Pot-luck dinner where new members were installed. To send Care packages overseas, Y-Teens held a canteen and an apple sale. In another project they made crossword puzzle books for old folks. Their annual city-wide Potato Chip sale ended a year of exciting activities.

Carolers: Hirshberger, Wallingford, Hurst, Laake, Rehm, Martin, Hurlburt, Huseman, Paulsen, Gutenson.

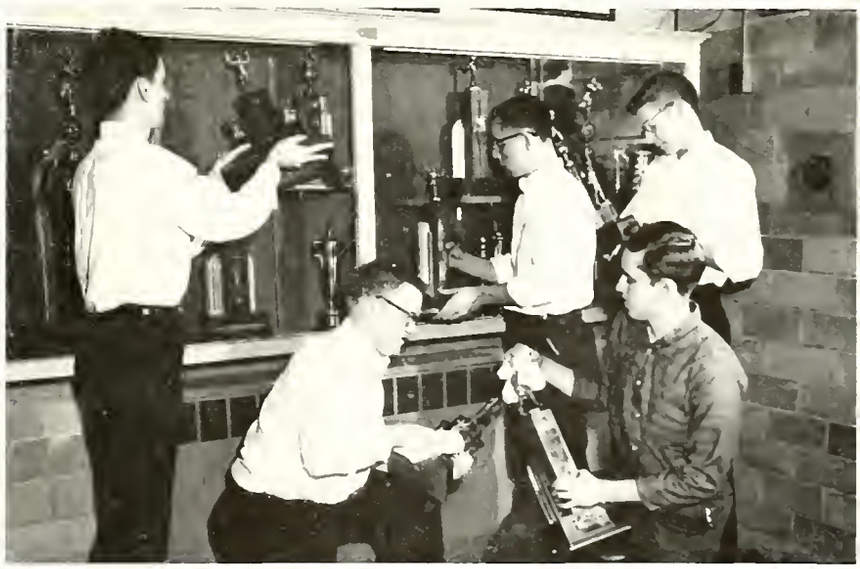
Need any help finding your seat in the dark? If so, call on these girls. The usher squad is always there, flashlight in hand, to help you. They are Linda Walker, Mary Kilgore, Linda Vinson, Bonnie Graham, Sharon Belmonte, Donna Schneeman, Linda Bushman, Judy Kulstad, Sue Jordan, Michele Raible.

Seats, tickets, programs: Ushers headaches

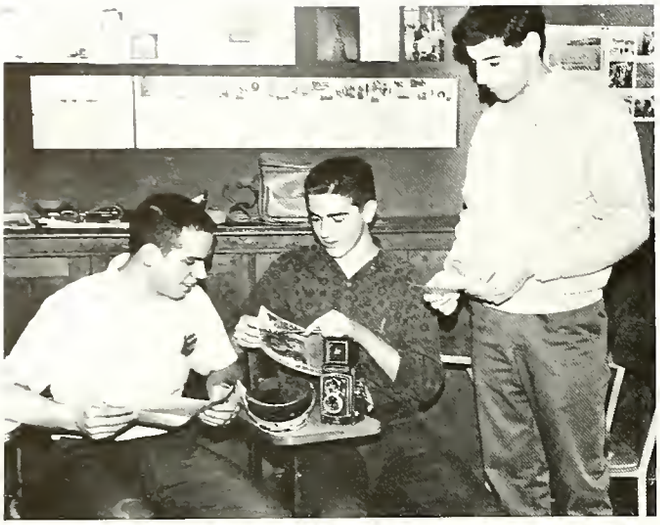
"You're in the right seat but wrong row!" We're running out of programs!" Serving the school for Bandwagon, Graduation, and Bye Bye Birdie, the Usher Squad, consisting of thirty-seven girls, must possess sufficient poise and plenty of patience to meet many frustrating problems.

Fun and friendship trademark Hi-Y

Clean speech, clean sportsmanship, clean living – these are the goals of Hi-Y. Throughout the school and the community, members of Hi-Y strive to achieve the purposes of their organization: to create and maintain high standards of Christian character. Once a year, deserving members attend a large council in Columbus, the Youth for Government Council. Composed of Hi-Y groups from all parts of the state, this council assumes, for three days, the large task for government administration.



Swapping the latest bits of gossip around school are Hi-Y boys who clean and polish the many trophies in the showcase by the boys' gym.



". . . nine, ten. Time's up." Enjoying their work with the Polaroid are Camera Club members, Tom Shiff, Bill Hamann, and Rick Harsham.

Members of the math club discover the new career possibilities in math open to them through the increased break-throughs in IBM development.

It's probably the wrong move, Tom. Watch that glint in Dave's eye! Dave Sales, Charles McMullin, and Dave Hall study Tom Hull's tactics.

Clubs, clubs, everyone joins a club!

"Hey Barb! What club are you going to join?" Clubs! Clubs! Clubs! There is one thing that is not lacking at West High—Clubs! Variety is wide. There is a club for nearly every interest and pastime. Just-for-fun clubs, with an added intellectual spirit, such as Math Club and Chess Club are available to Barb if she is the challenging type. If she is interested in business, the Merchandising Club may help her learn to buy and sell. Barb can gain insight into a career with the help of Health Careers Club. If Barb wants to go into teaching, FTA Club is available to her. Through tutoring after school, students learn teaching principles. No matter what club Barb picks, from it she will develop poise and personality, find new interests and, most important to every teenager, find a feeling of security among friends. (Hint: Did you join a club this year?)

"Oxford-Bound" for a D. E. C. A. Convention, the members of the Merchandising Club eagerly await their big week-end away from home.

"What's this thing doing to me?" Jennifer Glenn worries as Nancy Widmer takes her blood pressure at a Health Careers Club demonstration meeting.

As a club project, FTA members offer assistance in tudoring junior high pupils in study hall. Included are the officers, C. Hyland, S. Freese, P. Hurlbert, K. Wallingford, and D. Hurst.

Sub Deb sophomores are: BACK: Tam, Phalsgraf, Espelage, Wichman, Cappel, Sheer. Sitting in FRONT are Dailey, Heidrich, Chappel, Kinman, Markesano, Coyle, Gittinger, and Spreen.

Sub Deb enjoys a spirited and exciting year

Motors were buzzing. Wheels were turning. Sub Deb sophomores embarked upon a new world of fun and excitement the night they entered the Sub Deb showboat. A gay year was in store for all the girls. A whirlwind of activities swept them into a series of hayrides, parties, and dances. Heading the events of the upcoming holidays, pledges and active members forgot for a night their pledging woes as they happily danced atop the Skyline Room of the Terrace Hilton where the beautiful Christmas Formal, "Mistletoe Magic" was held. By February, the time for charity and money-making projects had begun. Everyone was working feverishly after school and during weekends on bake sales, and parties for needy children. March 16, was the date chosen for an open dance to be held at the Friars Club. May approached and the sophomores honored their departing senior sisters at a banquet and dance held at the Carrousel. Then, a little tearfully, Sub Debs ended a gala year.

Friendship grows in Chi Omega Sigma

Thanksgiving baskets, a Welfare Easter Party with Pidel for the less fortunate children of Guilford School, a basketball game with T.O. for Muscular Dystrophy, and other charitable projects produced a broader outlook on the part of the members of Chi Omega Sigma. Each event heightened fraternity brotherhood as everyone worked for a worthwhile cause. The Grub Party and the New Year's Eve celebration were among other events sponsored by C.O.S. Ending the year, members met alums at the May Banquet with tales of a prosperous and diversified year.

C.O.S. Seniors: Seated: J. Byers, B. Langdon, L. Langdon, T. Hohnecker. Standing: G. Clark, T. Peters, R. Kiefer, D. Mayleben, and M. Cothran.

Another chapter in "The Pidel Story" closes

Pidel ended another successful rush season by initiating fifteen new pledges. Car washes, pledge hikes and work meetings rushed passed, and at last the new pledges were made active members. The Christmas formal opened the way to many wonderful social activities for the Pidels. Following exams in January, Pidel sponsored a dance at the Camelia Room and named Charles Greiner their "Guy of Pi Delta Phi." A pleasant smile and a polite "Do you prefer coffee or tea?" symbolized the card party given by the girls and enjoyed by all who attended. The Bowery Party, Match—Me Dance, and hayride were other social functions that delighted the girls and their dates. Another chapter of Pidel's Story has ended but, the friendship of the girls remains.

Tri Chi strives for brotherhood

Corn flakes crunched, and syrup flowed! Pledging for '63 was under way. Members of Tri Chi enjoyed the mad antics of the pledges during that memorable week in January. In February the pledge class held a candy sale, while seniors sponsored an informal party. Car washes, basketball games, and hayrides filled the spring months. The May Banquet brought to a close a successful year.

Triginta Optimi strives together

Whether in sports, community benefits, or fraternity projects, Triginta Optimi remained unified in its efforts. Officers and members displayed a conscientious attitude which made a success of the card party, the candy and bake sales, and the open dance. Laughter ran rampant at the hilarious "old clothes" party and at the many other closed affairs. Even when the seniors left in June, friends and good times were not forgotten.

Thetas enjoy a year of friendship

Amid the hustle of an active year, friendships grew in Theta Alpha Pi. The Thetas started preparation for the rush parties at the beginning of last summer. Painting parties, pasting parties, practices, and last-minute rehearsals kept work going through rush season. The vivacious spirit of pledging changed pace at the annual Christmas formal held in conjunction with Sub Deb at the Terrace Hilton Hotel. The sorority left its holiday fun-making to share a day with a needy family. With the new year came the long awaited sleepless slumber parties, hayrides, bake sales, a rummage sale, and Go-To-Church Sunday. Last on the year's list of events were the May Banquet, the election of officers, the Installation Picnic, and the preparation for the Chatauqua outing. Firmer friendships now enriched the lives of all the TAP sisters.

Studio Choir-the forty best.

From the senior a cappella choir, Mr. Lang, new vocal director at West High, chose a select group of forty members to participate in the new Studio Choir. At the start Mr. Lang impressed upon the group that they would have to practice extensively to achieve their musical goals. Those who were willing to endure the vigorous training met after school three days a week and sometimes before school when it was necessary to avoid conflicts with other activities. Highlighting the year the group performed at conventions and clubs.

Large Senior Choir performs in several major presentations of the music department

Stage fright? Marian Schmidt seems to be suffering from those pre-performance jitters.

Western Hills' Senior Choir conducted by Mr. Frank Lang, director of vocal music, numbered over one hundred members this year. Meeting every school day in a forty minute class period, the group worked on vocal exercises and practiced musical selections. In addition to class work, the choir presented two major performances. The first of these was an assembly presentation at Thanksgiving, and the second was the Bandwagon performance in April. Rehearsals of Bandwagon began in February with meetings after school about three days a week. "Mist of May," "Brigadoon," "What a Day This Has Been," and "Bonnie Jean" were selections from the musical, "Brigadoon."

Orchestra plays its way to superior honor

Under the direction of Mr. Brady, the orchestra rates "Superior" in competition.

The combined creative leadership of Mr. Andrew Brady and the diligent hours of practice by talented musicians brought to Western Hills' orchestra a Superior rating for the second consecutive year in state competition. Besides the extra preparation for this contest, the orchestra also rehearsed for the customary winter, Christmas, and spring concerts and special orchestra assemblies which are given throughout the year. Bandwagon and West Hi's first musical, Bye Bye Birdie, added more work for the orchestra members but the results made the extra trouble worthwhile. Between hours of rehearsing and planning, busy orchestra members found time to sell Christmas wrapping paper, stationery, and fruit cakes to provide money for equipment for the musical department as well as funds for transportation to the state contest in Springfield, Ohio.

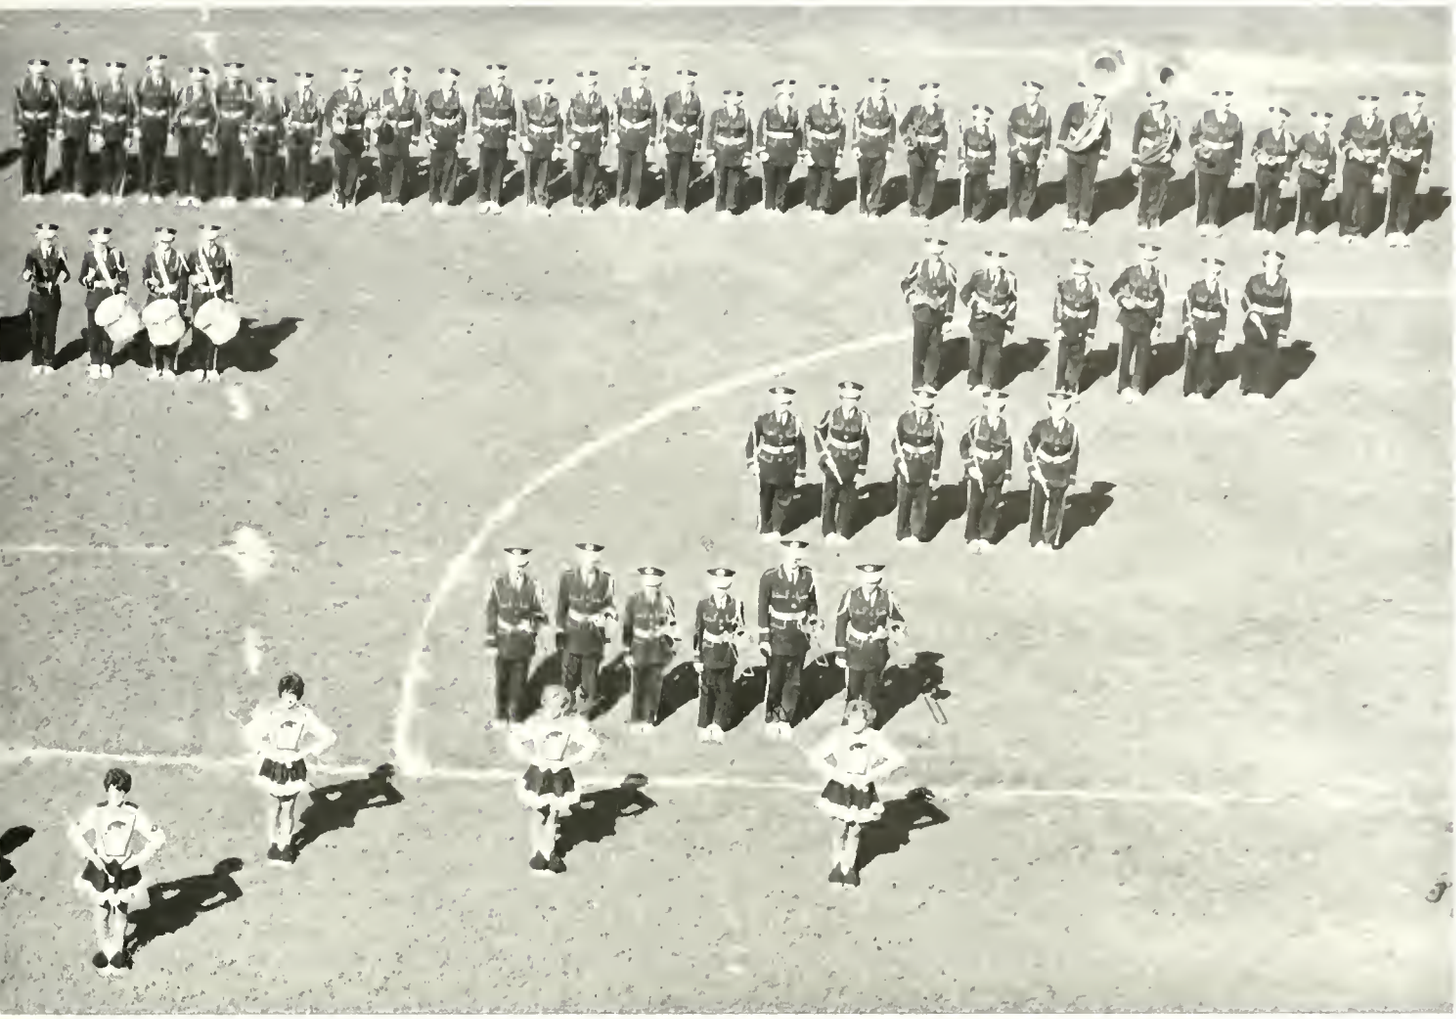
Unusual half-time skits presented by the band

Half-time excitement begins when West High's marching band proudly struts out on the field led by the lively drum major and majorettes. Twirling batons and vivacious music set the pace while spectators gaze upon the field in wonderment. No one realizes the hours of work and steady practice required to present the unusual half-time routines. Preparing for the concert, Mr. Brady preaches practice to get everyone in tip top shape for the contests. To tie up a successful year, the band entertained the school body at the final assembly.

Marking the end of another football season, Drum Major, Dave Gigley addresses band members.



"Hurry! We musn't miss the bus," shout tardy band members Evelyn Groning, Dave Martin, Marsha Rowland, Tom Porter and Stan Tyrich.

Trying for first flute, Joani Eckert plays for Mr. Brady.

"Come on kids! There's a real swinging canteen!" Pat Thomas, Lyn Harting and Chip Deifel eagerly advertise the cheerleaders' canteen.

Pep club and cheerleaders arouse spirit

Responding to the cry "Meet the Mustangs!", hundreds of West High students filled the gym to honor their football team. This dance and the traditional Pow Wow highlighted a year filled with thrills and excitement for West High's spirited rooters. Each game offered an opportunity for Mustang Boosters to support athletics.

Flashing their pleasing smiles, the West High cheerleaders demonstrate pep, school spirit and enthusiasm. Sue Kamp, Lyn Harting, Pat Koop and Sandy Marsh exhibit their peppy ability to lead the attentive student body in responsive chants encouraging the Maroon Mustangs to a hoped-for victory.

Practice and determination bring improvement

Diligent practice and strong determination brought West Hi's varsity football team through a grueling season of high grid games. Pushed on by a large group of spirited, yelling students, the Mustangs compiled a record of three wins and seven losses. This was a little better than last year's record of one win and nine losses. The real superiority of this year's team over last year's, however, showed up in twenty-seven touchdowns compared to the five of last year. Most of this year's team had had the experience of a varsity team. Although the team will lose many good senior players, the Mustangs will get a crop of tough players from the reserve team, which will strengthen the offense for next year.

Wester-12—Dayton Roosevelt-36
After a good first half, which saw a 12-10 West Hi lead, the hard-fighting Mustangs whithered and were finally crushed as the speedy Teddies tallied on several long drives to kill any hope of a Western victory.

Western-29—Fairfield-14
West Hi's aroused Mustangs, behind the brilliant running of Ed Abaecherli, stampeded the Fairfield Indians for their first victory of the season. It evened the record at 1-1, and marked West Hi's best win in several seasons.

Western-20—Taft-52
Speed, speed, and more speed proved West Hi's downfall. Why? Because it was Taft that had it. Carl Ward, the speedy Senator, tallied four times to up end the Mustangs in their first PHSL game of the season.

Western-20—Withrow-56
West Hi scored first, but not often, as the champion Tigers smothered the Mustangs in another league tilt. At first it appeared that the game would be close, but several long runs by Butch Williams put the issue way out of grasp.

Western-6—Hughes-14
Fleet Dick Huegal tallied West Hi's only touchdown on the opening kickoff, and the defense proved tougher than in previous weeks as the Hughes Big Reds eeked out a win over the inspired Mustang eleven.

Western-61—Deer Park-6
With Chip Diefel leading a nine touchdown, sixty-one point barrage, West Hi walloped Deer Park for their second win of the season in a game in which every Mustang saw action.

Western-7—Walnut-6
Coming back from a six point deficit, Western took a 7-6 lead in the second quarter on Franz Ritzman's extra point, and held the slim margin throughout the game.

Western-22—Central-38
Central's Al Moore ran and passed his team to a hard fought victory over West Hi. The Mustangs, out played early, never quit and pulled to within 30-22 before a 1 st-second Knight tally.

Western-6—Woodward-16
Trailing by only two points during most of the contest, an underdog Mustang grid team fiercely battled against the favored Bulldogs. Finally, late in the fourth period, Woodward put West Hi out of it with a Clem Turner touchdown.

West Hi's fired up Mustangs fought Elder's favored Panthers on even terms, but saw two offensive miscues, a fumble and a blocked kick, turn the tide against them.

promise future success

West Hi's improved reserves posted their best record in recent years with a six win, one lost, one tied record to finish second in the PHSL! The lonesome loss of the season, a 20-14 thriller, came at the hands of the Aiken Falcons who nipped the Mustangs in the final seconds of action. Just two weeks later Hughes' Big Reds pounced on a favored West Hi team in the last game of the season. When the dust had settled, the startled Mustangs had been tied. The inspired Mustang offense, one of the strongest in the city, found the "big play" whenever it was needed. In the Taft game the defense scored both West Hi touchdowns on a recovered fumble and a blocked kick. After such a fine season, West Hi grid prospects finally look rosy!

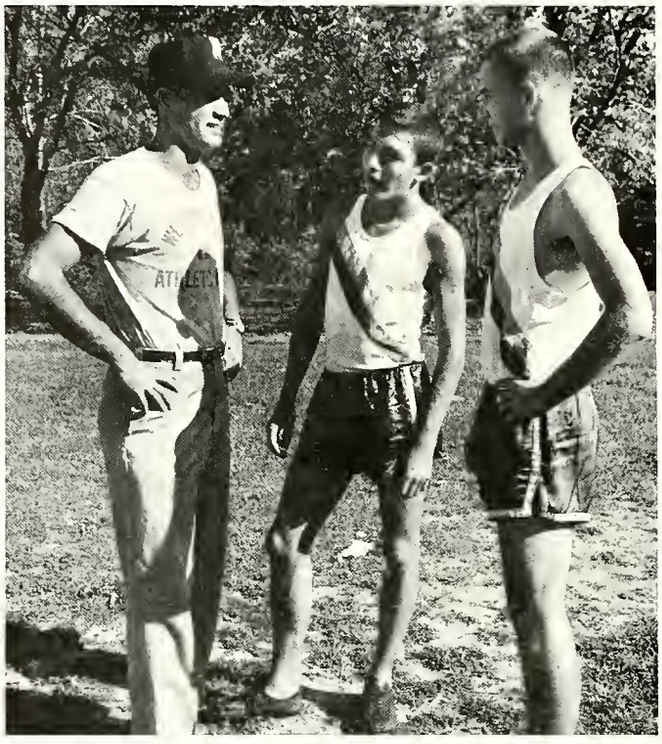
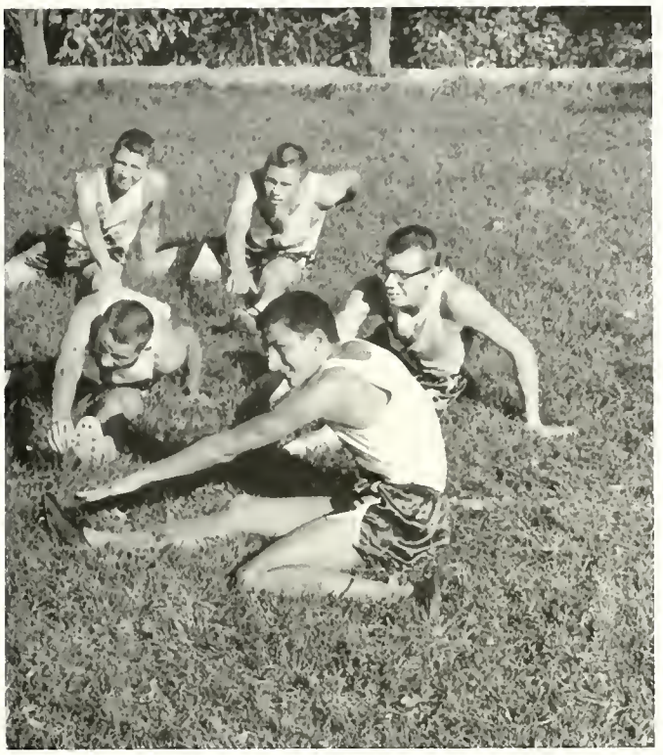
City championship awarded to cross country runner

Led by championship runner Bob Adams, this year's cross country team finished in third place behind Withrow and Walnut Hills in PHSL standings, and fourth in the district competition. Co-captain Bob Adams was the undisputed star of this year's team. It was because of his outstanding running that the team was able to land third place. Bob placed first in all three PHSL meets held at Avon field. Another first place in the district meet cinched the city championship for him. Then at the state meet at Ohio State, Bob placed fourth behind John Blair of Withrow. This year's record was due not only to Bob's great running, but was a team effort with co-captain Bob Coons, Bruce Judd, Dave Garner, and Paul Keiser helping to support the effort.



Mr. Renner, Bob Adams, and Dave Garner discuss the day's events.

"Let's take five" is a common term to the cross country team. But it doesn't mean they are going to rest five minutes; it means they are going to run five miles as the members of the reserve and varsity teams are doing on this bright, sunny, warm day in the middle of Indian summer.



"Take your time, guys; after all these warm-ups it's run, run, run!

Varsity improves record

Improvement was the big word when talk switched to the varsity basketball team this year. This improvement showed up in a number of places. First, of course, was the record of nine wins and nine losses. Second was the attitude taken by the players. There seemed to be an atmosphere of enjoyment around the team. Finally, the improvement was noted in continuous good playing which enabled the team to get into the district tournament where the team defeated Indian Hill 66 to 57 before Roger Bacon defeated them 68 to 55.

With a grotesque expression and a leap, Clark claws in a rebound in the Aiken game.

Reserve cagers improve with practice

Battling, running, and most of all practicing, the West Hi reserves posted a five won—thirteen lost record. The ever improving Mustangs also played nip and tuck ball in several other games, only to lose. The season was marked by the standout play of Keith Ford, Jim Patton, Nick Sideris, and several other fine varsity prospects. Coach Hafenbrittle's Mustangs, though not overpoweringly tall, were not midgets either. West Hi's squad won several league encounters, while dropping to the sophomore crews of hilltop rivals, Oak Hills and Elder. The top team-point production was 50 points against Hughes, with Jim Patton capturing individual honors by scoring 22 points. In the 18 game schedule, the West Hi quintet sported a balanced scoring attack with six different high point men. Nick Sideris proved the most reliable scorer as he paced the Mustangs in six games and stayed right up in there for laurels all year.

Intramurals prove popular this year

West Hi's first full year with a full program of intramural sports has been very successful. The program included football, basketball, golf, swimming, tennis, water ball, and other sports which were open to both junior and senior high boys. Many homerooms took part, with nearly 500 boys making up their respective teams. In basketball, for instance, 44 homerooms entered teams and 218 games were played. Each member of the winning and runner-up teams in each grade received a banner or ribbon, but everyone who took part profited. The intramural program has also done an excellent job in teaching the fundamentals and rules of the varied sports. The main job of the intramurals is to give boys who don't play on the varsity squads the chance to play in some sport.

Mermen cop second straight PHSL title

In a season filled with victories and broken records, the Mermen of Western Hills placed first in the PHSL and second in the Southwestern Ohio District. Only two losses marred the perfect record for the team, as they came in second to Walnut Hills in a PHSL contest and to Springfield North in district competition. Highlighting the various meets were new and faster times for the Western Hills record book. John Hader swam the 100 yard freestyle to a mark of 4:35.9 to beat Ralph Faulkner's old time of 4:47.2. In the 200 yard individual medley, Bill Weber set a new low of 2:20.5 breaking a record which had stood since 1960. A still older record held by Sherwood Faison, a 1959 graduate, fell to Jim Zimmer with the time of 1:00.9 in the 100 yard butterfly event. High scorers for the team in this most spirited and successful season were Ralph Faulkner, John Hader, and Bill Weber.

Success in track— endurance and speed

Last year's cinder team enjoyed one of the finest seasons in years. The high point of the season was West Hi's third place finish in the district meet, just weeks after becoming the first team in four years to upset Taft in a dual meet. The team had both good sprinters and distance runners. The fastest sprinter, Lenny Engel, ran both the 100 and 220 yard dashes, and anchored Western's district champion 880 relay team. Leading the pack of distance runners was Bob Adams, one of the top cross country runners in the state. Bob took second in the mile in the district, after capturing first in the PHSL. This year's team returns 10 other lettermen, all of whom make Western's track future seem bright.

Netters sparked by talented sophomores

Warm weather and sunny afternoons spur the tennis enthusiasts to dig their tennis whites out of closets and head for the clay courts. Taught and encouraged by Coach Otten, the team members strive to perfect their skills in order to better last year's record of 8 wins and 7 losses. Baseball squad betters early record

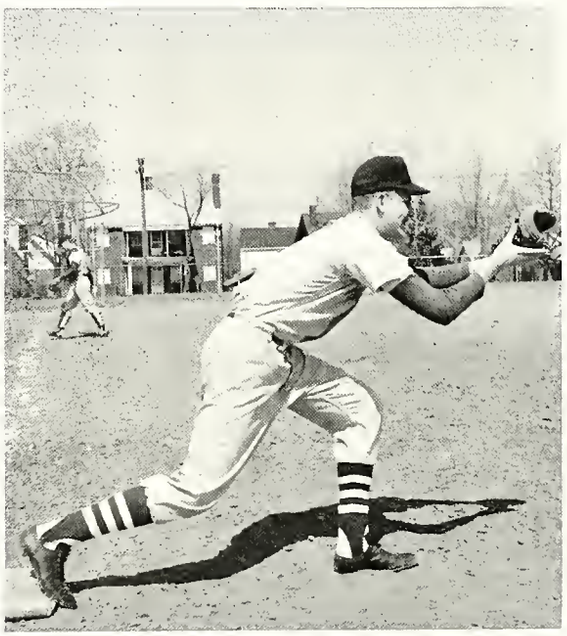
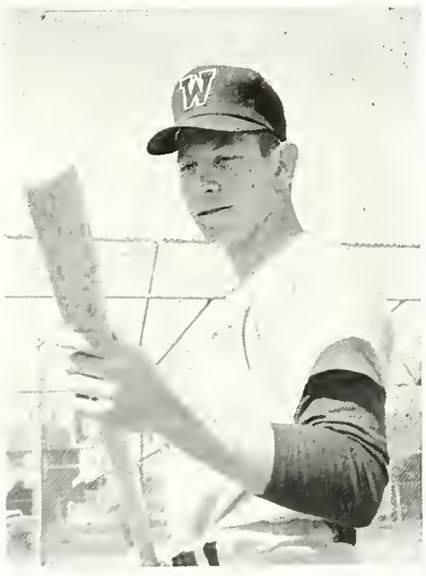
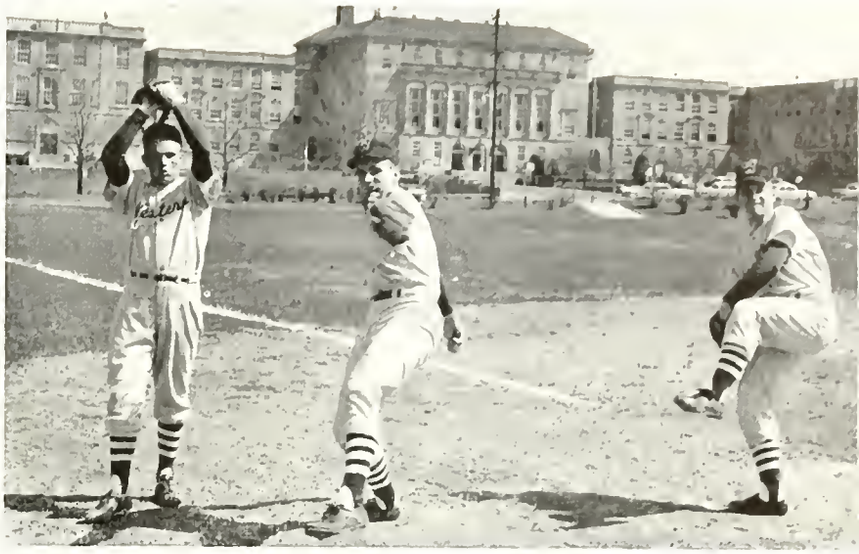
Starting the season this year the Varsity Baseball team took the sting out of last year's city champions, the Taylor Yellowjackets. Mr. Richard Hauck, who succeeded Paul Nohr as coach of the team, expressed high hopes for continued success throughout the season. His high hopes are justified by the return of Tom Jochum, Gary Clark, Nathan Sowels, Harold Correll, and Dick Osborne, all veterans of last year's team.



"Get the ball! Touch that bag!" John Appel, first baseman, is ready for an out as he awaits the throw from short-stop.



"What? Bat cracked?" No, captain Dick Osborn always checks his bat before playing.



Barry Lackey, Denny Schnieder, and John Bauman look forward to their daily practice sessions, for they add up to a successful season.

Reserves look strong in early games.

This seems to be the reserves' year. When asked about this year's team, coaches Smith and Toohey replied, "We have a good, solid, balanced team, good hitting, pitching, and fielding. This talent, however, is young, and has to be developed." It is developed in long, hard practices and scrimmages with the varsity. For coaches Ken Smith and Chuck Toohey, this is a first fling at coaching. Both coaches, however, have played college ball at Bowling Green and University of Kentucky, respectively. In their daily practices, the reserves are continually improving, while also being groomed for future varsity roles. The season has opened with two impressive wins, but the biggest surprise of the year was the 9-3 victory scored by the reserves over the varsity. Varsity squad members claim it was a "tainted victory" because the reserves used varsity pitchers. The win, however, was still very impressive and raises hopes the the team will improve on last year's poor 5-7 record.

Golfers take to the greens and sandtraps

Whack! Fore! "A hole in one! I can't believe it!" West High's golfers are on the greens again under the supervision of Coach Ralph Love. Practicing several times a week, the team is preparing for its most difficult matches against Withrow, Woodward, and Walnut Hills. He feels that with Henry Bang, captain, and Terry Mire in number one position, the above average team will have no trouble in ranking high in the District. At the end of last year's season the golf team retired from the green with a 5 won—4 lost record to place seventh in the District.

Maroon W offers fun and fellowship.

Maroon W is open to any boy—any boy, that is, who is willing to work, sweat, and put out enough to win a varsity letter. The club, led by Greg Koppenhoefer, has sponsored many activities which include the Dream of Maroon and Cream Dance and the Maroon W-Faculty game. The faculty again still very impressive and raises hopes that took the laurels. Could it be that the Maroon W members get stage fright when playing their leaders?

"Come on now and stretch!" Mr. Rain and Mr. Ganzmiller fight for control of the ball during the exhausting Maroon W-Faculty game.

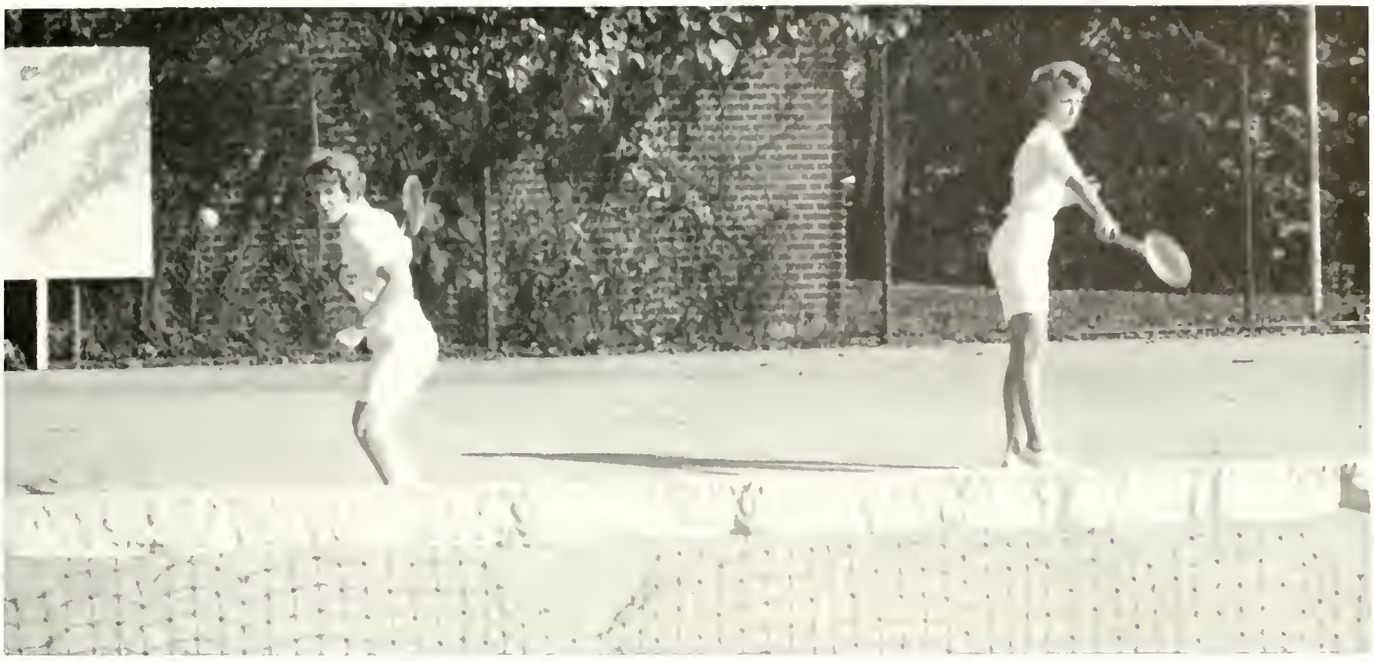
GAA girls select their activities

Tennis balls, ping-pong paddles, bows and arrows, golf clubs, and bowling balls describe the variety of individual sports in GAA. Beginning a new year, girls crowded to the hockey fields hoping to hit that far-away target. Winter months kept everyone indoors, but clashing ping-pong paddles and swinging badminton rackets proved that the weather did not affect enthusiasm. Crowding the spring days and concluding the activities of the year were the tennis matches and trips to the golf greens. Day by day each active GAA member attended and enjoyed the variety of sports. Without the guidance of the sponsors, Miss Witte, Miss Gieringer, and Miss Chamberlain, individual sports would not be available. The time and effort of these teachers, however, enable girls to participate in a sport of their choice.

This vigorous trio — Bonnie Rehme, Pat Hurlburt, and Nancy Peters — discover the ancient sport of archery, fun for modern Robin Hoods too!

Slamming the ball to her opponent, Pat Abel makes a determined effort to break the deadlock in the season's frantic ping-pong tournament.



Eagerly anticipating the coming tennis season, Barb Kohl and Sandy Wegert strive to perfect their skills in return shots during a practice warm-up.

Roll, roll, roll the ball! A strong arm plus a good aim will provide Nancy Yeager with an enviable score.

Tension mounts in each exhausted hockey player as the ball hurdles toward the goal cage at last.

Dribble, aim, drive, and score

B'ocking the ball, Marge Fox asserts all her efforts to prevent the goal.

"Ground sticks, ground sticks, ground sticks, go!" Soon after school begins, the hearty screams of senior high girls are heard on the hockey field. What is the cause of these incessant yells? Of course, hockey is underway. Under the direction of Miss Gieringer, the advanced team was chosen consisting of twenty-six girls. Due to bad weather, only one game was played. However, West Hi defeated Woodward, 2-0. Thus, the close of the season approached quickly.

Finding no help, Diane Hurst, hockey manager, heavily ladens herself with essential equipment.

Hoping for a trip to first, Pat Abel steps into a bunt with determination and a powerful arm.

Gloves, bats, balls evoke GAA enthusiasm

"Strike three, you're out!" energetically the umpire yells as the baseball season gets under way. With the beginning of spring, many enthusiastic tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders hasten to the hockey fields. Under the direction of Mrs. Driscoll and Jean Husemann, an advanced team is chosen, signifying the outstanding players from the three grades. Each baseball player strives for victory and honor to herself as well as her team. Thus, the baseball season is never forgotten with all the excitement, enjoyment, and competition.

Jean Husemann, baseball manager, and Nancy Whitehurst enthusiastically discuss a good play.

"Fair ball," shouts the umpire, JoAnne Staubitz. Ethel Maher and Linda Kihnley come in to score while Veronica Hayworth disgustedly waits for her team-mates to relay the ball to her.

Suddenly the lights dim and the welcome is given: "Tonight the Livesaving Corps would like to present "Hats Set to Music.'" The "water curtain" goes up as nurse caps, sombreros, berets, cloches, turbans, veils, and top hats invade the pool. The diving exhibition adds excitement along with the clever routines, variation of hats and grand finale.

"Hey, hey get the rebound," is the familiar cry heard every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon during the basketball season. This year, with the guidance of Miss Gieringer and Leslie Redman, sixteen teams were organized. Presently, twenty-two girls were chosen to participate on the advanced team. The competition at the Basketball Sports Day held on March 15, proved to be an exciting close to the season.

Jr. GAA members "Stay in Orbit"

"Stay in Orbit With GAA" urged the sun, moon, planets, and stars, who carried out the theme of the Junior High GAA get-acquainted party. With this stimulus, new members enthusiastically entered the first stage of a year of activity. The second stage of the rocket, fall, inaugurated the successful October outing and Thanksgiving projects: the filling of a basket and a party at Allan House. Orbiting in the full swing of spring, members enjoyed a bake sale and April dance. In the elipse of individual sports, Barb Bicking, office secretary and former tennis pro, offered help to junior tennis stars. At the end of the sports year, the rocket completed its journey. Sponsor, Miss Gieringer, the fuel for our rocket trip, bestowed the hard earned awards upon her earth-bound athletes at the annual May Banquet.

President, and Superintendent Wendell Pierce; "Santa Claus" William A. Shackleford, German teacher.*

The position of esteem

A dynamic man, Mr. Arthur J. Havlovic approaches his job as principal of Western Hills with a sound philosophy. "Honor and responsibility," Mr. Havlovic states, "are associated with the principalship. The extent to which both are shared with staff and students determines the reputation and character of our school." The pursuance of this philosophy includes many beneficial conferences with assistant principals, counselors, and teachers as well as students. Along with managing business at school, Mr. Havlovic must represent Western Hills in community affairs and have frequent discussions with parents. Through experience and skill, Mr. Havlovic correlates the material gathered in conferences and produces the end result — a smooth running school.

Checking his calendar for the day's agenda is Mr. Havlovic's first order of business.

Mr. Havlovic's schedule includes discussions with students, as well as meetings with class leaders.

Among his varied jobs Mr. Havlovic must confer with Miss Gates, dietitian, and Mr. Moeller, engineer.

Three new assistants

MR. WILLIAM P. STRUNK, Assistant Principal of Administration, helps new teachers master their problems for a successful first year.

MR. ROBERT SIEKMANN, Assistant Principal in charge of senior high, plays an important part in helping pupils adjust.

MR. PAUL E. NABORS, Assistant Principal, competently handles the problems arising in our junior high student body.

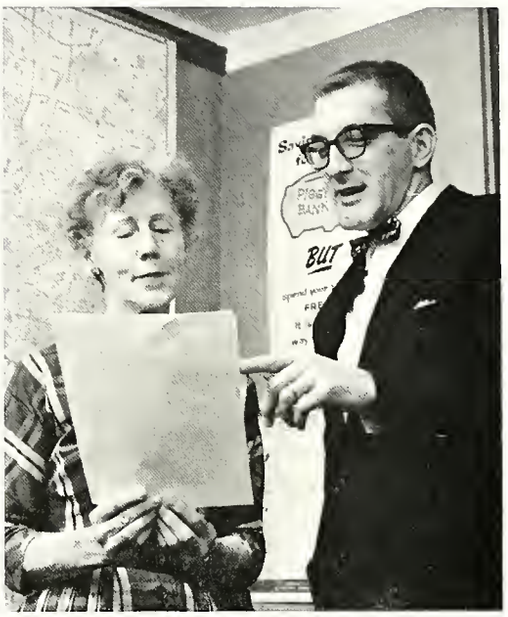
to the administration deal with demanding problems

To cope with the present problems of enlarged enrollment our principal, this year, has three assistants: Mr. Siekmann, Mr. Nabors, and Mr. Strunk.

Working with students and faculty members, the assistant principals divide responsibilities. Mr. Strunk fills a new position at Western Hills in which he works primarily with the new teachers. While solving problems of the students, Mr. Siekman states his main satisfaction is "seeing boys and girls realize their mistakes and do a turnabout in the right direction." Mr. Nabors has a philosophy for his job. He believes that all the rights of an individual must be preserved, but in turn the individual must not abuse those rights. Together, these men perform administrative duties to attain a high status for Western Hills.

Counseling staff—invaluable

"Counseling is better than teaching, for you have the opportunity to speak to students individually." These words of Mr. Borkosky vividly explain why some people prefer counseling to teaching. Counselors work with students in three fields: academic, vocational, and personal counseling, which is the most difficult. Working with counselors and principals, our eight efficient secretaries begin their busy day with "Good morning," familiar words heard over the intercom system. Their work involves all the clerical duties for the administration of Western Hills.



Working out the problems of a new schedule are Mr. Schlimm and Miss Hanauer, junior high counselors.

Tenth grade counselor, Mr. Glenn Borkowsky, and senior high counselors, Mr. William Conger and Mrs. Dorothy Heninger, discuss curriculum changes with students. Each counselor talks individually to students in order to help solve their various problems and to help students make future plans.

With her cheerful smile, Miss Huseman confronts Mr. Havlovic with mail to read, letters to sign.

Newcomers to the secretarial staff, Miss Carolyn Beall and Miss Janet Meyer, discover variety in the duties they perform during the course of a day at West High.

Knowledge of the way to handle the daily situations occurring at busy West Hi is a must for the office staff, Miss O'Neil, Miss Rothert and Mrs. Adams.

"Sending bulletins by intercom is a pleasure," acknowledge Miss Bicking and Miss Lehman.

How could one tiny desk be so busy? Eight senior teachers agreeably share four small desk drawers for the necessary homeroom business.

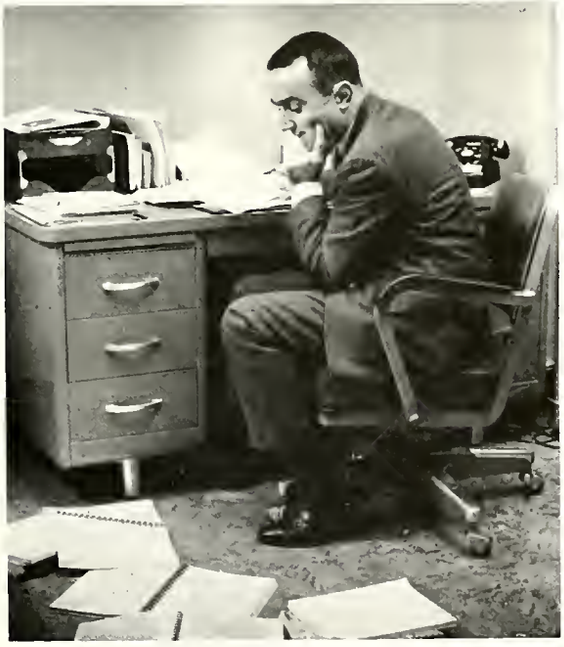
Many changes spice a teacher's life

Teachers more than anyone else had to make changes in their usual daily routine this year. They had to arrive earlier and leave later to fulfill the demands of the new schedule. Each teacher was required to develop his teaching program to follow the course of a nine bell day. Many teachers worked under pressure of rugged schedules while others were fortunate enough to have balanced ones. Along with these adjustments, forty faculty members became traveling teachers without a room or a desk all their own. Even though they faced many difficulties, they graciously accepted the new schedule and patiently adjusted to it.

Busy in midst of chaotic summer remodeling, office secretaries become accustomed to noise and confusion.

Mr. Rain and Mrs. Walter find the secret of sharing a homeroom desk is all in the lid you choose.

What hardships teachers must face! They not only share the same classroom, but have trouble finding a key to use as well!



Crowded conditions are evident in Mr. Strunk's office!

Or perhaps Mr. Strunk just likes working in this manner.

new teachers and small cars

In spite of many time-consuming tasks, faculty members found moments for relaxation. In the fall of the year, the teachers and their families joined together for a picnic. Food, fun, and entertainment by the musically talented members of the group were the highlights of the day. Besides sponsoring student activities, many faculty members found that they shared common interests. Among these were driving Volkswagons, playing bongos, and preparing gourmet dishes. Other faculty members enjoyed creative, individual hobbies such as sculpturing, weaving, and painting. Whatever the activity, each faculty member enjoyed his leisure pastime to the fullest.

We think of death as ending; let us rather think of life as beginning, and that more abundantly . . . We think of parting, let us think of meeting. We think of going away; let us think of arriving. And as the voice of death whispers "You must go from earth," let us hear the voice of Christ saying, "you are but coming to Me."

Charles Hollingsworth

Charles Paul Hollingsworth, a member of the seventh grade class, was fatally injured by an automobile on December 14, 1962, while crossing the street. Charles, new to Western Hills from Fairmount Elementary School, easily adjusted to junior high. According to his teachers and counselor he was a sensible, level-headed boy who enjoyed school work and was interested in learning about new things. His special interest was electronics—a field in which he hoped to earn his living. Among his other interests were sports, particularly baseball and basketball. The Church also played an important part in Charles' life. He was a member of the Confirmation Class at Emmanuel United Church of Christ and took an active part in all church projects. It is a sad thought that such a young active life ended so tragically.

In Loving Memory . . .

Miss Florence Tebbenhoff

To Miss Florence Tebbenhoff, who passed away October 17, 1962, teaching was a career into which she poured all her immense vitality and knowledge. Since coming to Western Hills in 1940, she communicated her love of French culture to thousands of students. At Western Hills, she worked arduously as Red Cross Faculty Representative, as a member of the Siehl Scholarship Committee, as French Club sponsor, as chairman for the biennial carnival, and recently as a member of the Advisory Council. Most important of all, she signified the essence of devotion to her students, her career, her ideals. For this she will always live, for in each of her pupils there is something of the dynamic personality that made her students call her "the incomparable Tebb."

Miss Mary V. Sellers

The death of Miss Mary V. Sellers early on the morning of May first brought tragedy a second time this year to the faculty of Western Hills High School. Before coming to Western Hills in 1960, Miss Sellers spent twenty-nine years at Walnut Hills High School, where she was chairman of the Girls' Health and Physical Education Department. During Miss Sellers's few years at Western Hills, she gained the confidence and respect of her beloved students. Along with her health classes she had the responsibility for the Usher Squad at West High. She was also very active locally and state wide in Teachers' and Education Associations. Miss Mary V. Sellers lived a dedicated life filled with warm friendships and enriching human experiences, for she believed that "Only a life lived for others is a life worthwhile."

Rookies glimpse West High during the bustle of "Orientation Day"

After a hearty welcome from Mr. Havlovic, enthusiastic newcomers, ready for a tour of the school, rush to greet their student guide.

The first comprehensive view a new seventh grader gets of Western Hills is on that awe inspiring, bewildering, "Orientation Day." Bursting with energy and excitement, eager seventh graders urge their student guide on as they embark on thir first tour of West Hi. Fast flying comments come from all directions. "Could we see the boys gym first?" "No, let's see the home economics room first!" "It's so crowded!" "I've never climbed so many stairs in my entire life. I'm bushed!" "Do you really mean that the lunchroom is all the way up there?" Thus the rookies huff and puff their way through the first thrilling day at West High.

"Where's the library? Where's the lunchroom? Where's the gym?" The impatient rookies immediately engulf Barb Jones with questions.

They're off, bubbling with excitement and anticipation. Barb's flock of seventh graders are wide-eyed as she leads them through the school.

Odd-end, even-end room numbers are confusing

After the first few harassing mistakes in teachers' name and room numbers, the large group of small students get to know their way around the building, and become accustomed to our even-end, odd-end numbering system. They become familiar with our nine bell day and shorter periods. Besides these obvious peculiarities to be mastered, there is one little duty called homework which the young students must master. Fortunately, the new junior high study halls give them a chance to work on the great variety of subject matter during the day, leaving them more time to use the infinite supply of energy that seems to be bottled up in all seventh graders.

Another of our junior high activities, to be indulged in by only the bravest of seventh graders, are our junior high dances. Eighth graders get in the swing as the lively tempo at West Hi mounts "You're not supposed to sew your blouse to your skirt THAT way," exclaims eighth grader Belinda Chaldikas to partner, Margie Bushman.

Confused or excited, apathetic or energetic — there are a few of the contrasting words that describe students in the eighth grade. This is a year of transition. Eighth graders find themselves between the insignificant rookies and the mighty freshmen. Now that they are familiar with the school and teachers they no longer hesitate to make their opinions known. With a new feeling of freedom they debate without restraint the faults and assets of each of their subjects. Their teachers, too, become objects of discussion, however, tends to cause the eighth graders to think for themselves, and thus they change from rookies to freshmen.

Enjoying an early morning breakfast in the school lunchroom, Roddie Risedon hurriedly puts the finishing touches on his homework for the day ahead.

Hungry eighth graders relish tempting food

Four hundred pounds of potatoes, twenty-four hundred hamburgers, twelve hundred fish sandwiches, and six-teen hundred brawnie lads — all of this food and much more must be prepared each week by Miss Marion Gates, dietician at West Hi, and twenty-five helpers. Starting at 7:30 with breakfast for over one hundred students, Miss Gates and her well-trained staff work constantly until 1:00. "To prepare good-looking sandwiches and salads is fun," says Miss Gates, "but it's not much fun to clean up. According to Miss Gates, working with lively pupils who have healthy appetites is more interesting than working in a hospital in St. Louis where she did her graduate work upon graduation from Miami.

Cheerleaders arouse spirit in junior high

The exuberent voices of lively eighth graders demonstrate their enthusiastic approach toward life at Western Hills. After a year as "rookies" they now have confidence to join the many clubs West High offers. The Pep Club, led by eight energetic cheerleaders, cheers for football and baseball heroes while the newly formed majorette corps leads the junior band. G.A.A. keeps the girls active as well as healthy. Young intellectuals may join French Club or Digits. National Junior Honor Society encourages better grades. By participating enthusiastically in all the activities, eighth graders experience a breathless, rewarding year before assuming the responsibilities of freshmen.

Freshman set a swift pace in order to reach their goal: senior high

The new junior high majorettes leading the band are Fay Tice, Brook Baldwin, Sharon Correll, Kathy Hoff, Bev Moore, Pat Cunningham, Sheila Varner, Terry Eden, Donna Meeks, Connie Witte, Doris Foley.

Eager Beavers! These are energetic ninth graders who participate in many of the Junior High activities. Pep Club and a large cheering section support West High with their enthusiastic school spirit. Also helping the team to victory are the junior high cheerleaders and majorettes. GAA offers girls the chance to accumulate points toward an award by participation in various sports. Extra sportsminded freshman boys may go out for junior high teams or intramural sports. The ninth graders try to lead an active and peppy life in order to keep up with the fast pace set by the senior high.

"All for West Hi, stand up and holler!" The newly formed boys cheering section injects the school spirit needed to drive the mustangs to victory.

Freshmen welcome foreign student to West Hi

Ninth graders met their new school year by sharing numerous experiences. An experience which created great excitement was the arrival of West High's only foreign student, Arlette Wagner, from Algeria. Arlette found her fellow classmates eager to help her adjust to the school. With their help she learned a little English and the short cuts to all her classes. Another long awaited experience was the enjoyable Sweetheart Dance. The highlight of the year came with the awarding of recognition to those who held and received offices. This important experience of leadership was shared by many and will be of great value to the freshman, preparing them to cope with responsibilities of senior high.

Senior high status finally

Full of life! That's a freshman. He has to be! To keep up with the energetic young rookies, as any rookie aid will say, is quite a task. Struggling for their fair share of space in the corridors and study halls, fragile freshmen grow weary. More homework than ever before requires more care and more time in studying. New this year to two general English classes, is an experiment in learning set up by the city. It is a new method of teaching vocabulary in which workbooks are employed. In biology classes freshmen enthusiastically engage in animal dissections and blood typing. If he has a strong stomach, the freshman thoroughly enjoys this and learns much. Truly, the freshman is busy having the time of his life.

Sophomores learn to be better drivers and have fun in Driver Ed.

Using model cars, Mr. Meier helps students visualize traffic problems.

There it is starting to whirl before the sophomore's very eye. He turns, catches on, and plunges into the world of senior high. Strange at first, faces soon become familiar and new experiences, everyday. Two of a sophomore's most memorable moments at West Hi are the arrival of his sixteenth birthday and signing for h's permanent drivers' license. In preparation for these events the over-anxious student of Western Hills receives courses in driver education. Diligently he studies all the mechanical parts of an automobile, memor'zes the rules of the road, and takes his reaction test. Finally he is actually behind the wheel, starting, stopping, and learning to drive on an icy or wet slippery street—all of which provide him with a solid background for safe driving, and thus reduce the cost of his father's insurance.

You kick either the wall behind you or the person in front of you when you try to learn modern dance movements in such a crowded gym class as this.

Tenth Grade

West Hi sophomore class is largest ever

"Twisted and cramped" might have described the modern dance class or students crowded together in the halls at Western Hills. With the largest sophomore class ever to attend the school several adjustments had to be made. To keep the number of students in a classroom at a minimum, expansions were made in the number of classes and teachers. In the English department there were 26 sophomore classes. The math department was also enlarged, having approximately 14 classes. Though such changes relieved the situation in the academic classes, scheduling difficulties made congested study halls and gym classes a necessity.

A rush of activities overwhelms new sophomores

Since the effectiveness of a class depends not only on the officers but on the members as well, sophomores engage in many activities to make their class a success. Typically tenth grade is the indecision about which activity to join.

"My mother says I can only join three. I love sports like hockey, basketball, and swimming, so GAA would be fun, but I want to work on the Breeze or Annual."

"I'm pretty good at swimming. I think I'll go out for the team." Perhaps the complexity of these decisions explains the puzzled expressions on the faces of the tenth graders.

The speaker couldn't see the audience; the audience couldn't see the speaker—such was the unusual situation when Larman S. Sherman spoke toWest High student body over the newly adopted P. A. system. Mr. Sherman is blind. Though blind since birth, he strives to lead a normal life. Telling of his home and school life, the fears and difficulties he had to overcome, he captured and inspired the hearts of many pupils.

Auditorium proves

"All right fellows, show me how strong you really are by opening this desk!" mutters angry Cherry Cappell after trying to open it herself.

to be all-purpose hall for West High students

"Bang!" Study hall desks are slammed into place and eager pupils hopefully watch the auditorium supervisor for that final "OK" before they begin the fifty yard dash to the door. What is this new type of athletic event? Sophomores soon learn that it's only part of the vigorous study activity which goes on each bell of the day. At the beginning of the school year, sophomores had to learn to outsmart the obstinate auditorium desks. Not only did they cause opening and collapsing problems, but when they were finally ready for use, most average size pupils found that the only way to reach the desk was to sit on a stack of books.

Thespian musical, Bye Bye Birdie, bubbles with fun

"It's teeming with excitement and school spirit. I really like it." This could only be a description of West High, made by an enthusiastic sophomore new to the school. "What a change!" exclaimed a pert young lady who had recently come from an all girls school. "I just love the decorations around here too—boys!" Other new students have found that they have more privileges than they had in other schools. Many are also surprised at the friendly teacher-student relationship which is characteristic of our school.

The most prominent topic to be found among the newcomers is the nine bell day. Although it presents some disadvantages, most students agree that they like it. As one optimistic person put in, "It makes the classes shorter and gives us more study halls."

"Now my life is rosy, since I met my Rosie!" Sandi Moore and Mike Morton live quite happily forevermore—in "Bye Bye, Birdie" that is!

The junior year is not just taking English III, American history and study halls; now the lucky student can sit on the varsity bench, watching and waiting for his chance to play. Now emotions are stirred at the thought of the Junior Class election. Voting begins with mass confusion in the student body: "Who's up?" "Who should I vote for?" Elections over, fall dances along to the bright, lively steps of a square dance, better known to all proud juniors as the Texan Twist. Excitement mounts again as the time arrives for the ordering of class rings. Thoughts sober up with last minute cramming for mid-term exams.

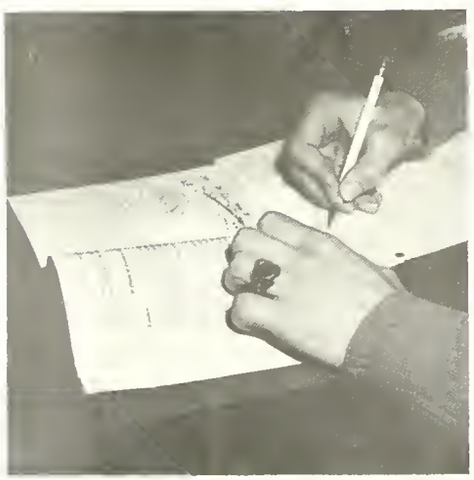
Fall weather, old friends, new experiences: a year begins

Bong, bong, bong, bo-o ng! The new passing bell rang loud and clear as almost three thousand students gathered in West High for the 1963 school year. Four hundred boys and girls rushed to the auditorium, anxious to see what the new senior homeroom was like. Separated by only a few assembly seats, eight homerooms and eight homeroom teachers found the situation a bit confusing. A new homeroom, public address system, shorter classes and many new teachers all made the senior year more special and more exciting than usual. Oh! One last change so easily remembered—school wasn't out until 3:10! Seniors accepted the challenge of their last year and gallantly fulfilled their responsibilities. The Senior Class Round-Up, football season, the Homecoming Dance and Christmas festivities all passed with a flourish. The excitement and pleasures contained in the first semester of this year could only be recaptured in memories.



CLASS DAY 1963

CLASS HISTORY

Today we present a different and unusual story. Once again we turn to our large black book. For many of you this will be the only acquaintance you have had with a book in high school. But no matter, for today, for you, the members of the Class of '63—THIS IS YOUR LIFE!

The first chapter opens in your sophomore year. Here you meet your first great conflict in life. After ten years of kindergarten the kids from Jr. High are promoted. Remember? For some of you it was a difficult change. "Whoo" Bauer finds this so in Latin. "Whoo" can say veni (I came), vidi (I saw)—but not vici (I conquered). Also having trouble in plane geometry, is Terry "Harvey" Hohnecker, who thinks a compass is best used as a dart. He will be back again next year.

Socially speaking, for many of you a whole new world opens up. Marv Sheetz finally hits the big time in COS, while Erwin Raible fails to make minimum height standards in TO. Ken "Rick Nelson" Kleeb decides on Tri Chi after much contemplation and persuasion. On the sorority side we find that tall redhead Linda Raaf sprinting around the track at the Winter Olympics while being chased by a pledger with a tree branch. Linda has been chased before, but never like this.

Everyone seems to be in a gala mood. The freedom to chat in the halls and to roam the premises is intoxicating. After school activities are also lively. At the zoo we see Jo Ann Fellens crying tears of laughter over Diedra Van Hoose's imitation of an elephant at work.

The English department joins in the festivities with a picnic. Bob and Dave Adams seem to be having a ball tossing water balloons at Judy Anderson. Remember? You are beginning to grow up. However, this must be stopped so that everyone can go on a scavenger hunt for Judy Bernet and Gary Clark, who seem to have lost their way.

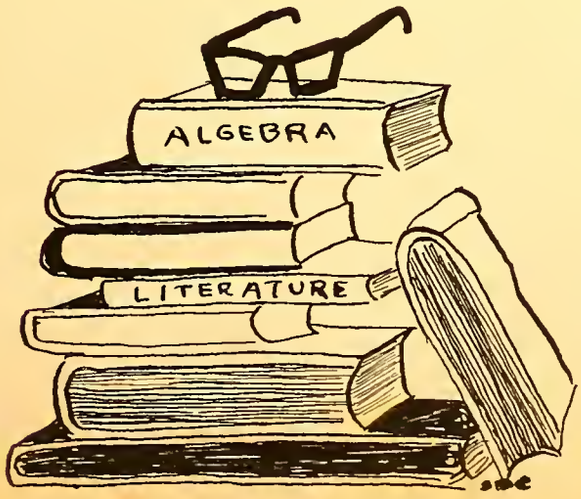
Consisting of such future stars as Tom Dillon, John Smith, and Jim Hatfield the reserve football team managed to win one game by upsetting new-born Oak Hills 28-0. The reserve basketball team also has had an exciting year—ask Dick Mayleben.

Mr. William Renner took over as swimming coach and success was almost immediate, despite the likes of J. R. Dalbert, Chip Thielen, Paul Tuerck, Jim Zimmer, Tom Peters and Paul Morgan. Meanwhile the gym team of Bill Coughlin, Ron Nicoloff, Ken Loch, Tom Murphy, and Charles Greiner enjoyed their last year.

Next we find Jo Ann Fellens with a puzzling look on her face. At the Sub Deb-Tausia slumber party Jo discovered on a ouija board that she was to marry a boy with the initials Dan H—.

That spring Henry Peters, Jack Saatkamp, Paul Morgan, Roger Yee, Greg Koppenhoefer, Dick Osborn, Skip Glazer, Chip Deifel, Raleigh Woods, Pat Thomas, and Don Stevenson all worked eagerly on the reserve baseball team preparing for their big senior year.

As chapter two opens the tempo picks up, despite the fact a curfew is set on a student homeroom arrival. Things begin to hum, however, over the huge success of the new majorette uniforms.



For many of you it is a year of recognition. Kathy Breunig and Sherry Ott for instance proudly display their perfect attendance pins that they received at church. They admit it was a rough ride along the way. Also coming into the spotlight are Barry and Larry Langdon with their first million seller "Slipped Disc." The Junior Class elects its officers—Dan Tuerstcher, President; Judy Anderson, Vice-President; Ann Gribbell, Secretary; and Chip Thielen, Treasurer. Dick Maschmeyer, Gayle Parker, Linda Raaf, and Mike Selm, are lauded for making Quill & Scroll. "Arsenic and Old Lace"—the junior class play—was a big hit and a lot of fun. Ask John "6%" Jones and Dick "hip boots" Langston. Remember—oh but of course you couldn't. In Bandwagon Eugene Enders plays Tarzan as he yells, "Who greased the choir risers?"

Frank Fitzmann is the talent discovery of the year for his Shakespearean talent in reading from Macbeth. Frank has to keep it down so as not to disturb Bob Graf who is reading his favorite novel Tropic of Cancer. You had better leave him be, he is beginning to swear at you in Nicaraguan. In the annual room, Tom "Ballpien" Hull is singing "You Really Got a Hold on Me" to his only love, Donna Eckert.

Approaching us is Ken Kleeb who is disappointed after losing the title of tennis team captain, while Len Engel, puffing on a cigarette, is preparing for the track season.

Tom Lange becomes the new Student Council President; Lou Bauer, vice-president, who unknowingly will relieve Tom for six weeks; Judy Bernet, treasurer; and Lynn Kaemmerle, secretary.

Summer approaches. Everyone is thrilled over his class ring. Especialy Dick Osborn, who rents his ring on the side to the Shrine Circus. On the other hand Chip Thielen vows to guard his ring with his life. We see the Pidels returning from Chatauqua looking parched from thirst. It seems someone spiked their ice tea with salt. Sub Deb has no comments.

Lugging the Daisy Chain are Minna Baker, Barb Aufdenberg, Betty Battamiller, Kathy Breunig, Gloria Dann, Joan Eckert, Lyn Harting, Linda Heisel, Suzanne Idol, Sandy Hoyer, Susan Maisch, Lynn Newcomer, Donna Shank, Bev Strohm, Linda Walker, Lois Ziegler, Joan Ingram, and Diane Wray.

Ending the year on a somewhat sour note, we listen attentively to Nick Rachford's bird calls.

Now the final chapter in THIS IS YOUR LIFE opens. You are seniors, big time—even Eddie Morgan. You are greeted by many changes. You are not permitted to chat in the halls or even stand in them. Most of you seem confused as to your daily schedule. Everyone enjoys trying to figure out the announcements in homeroom as they come over the intercom. The senior round-up in the auditorium is the first successful one in two years.

As seniors the world is bright. Everyone has a song on his lips. We see Honest Bo Westerkamp humming 'Runaround Sue' on his way to football practice. It seems to add incentive. Sandy Browning, Sandi Moore, Nancy Moser, and Sherry Jones can be seen frequently whistling 'We Are Poor Little Lambs Who Have Lost Our Way' as they stumble towards Hawaiian Gardens. As we walk down the second floor hall we hear a strange sound somewhat like Judy Compton having her appendix removed without an anesthetic. We soon discover it is just Kathy Breunig, Thurmond D. Boaz, Lois Ziegler, Charlie Greiner, and Tom Peters bellowing a few bars of Auld Lang Syne—and holding hands at that.

Tom Peters is elected class president, along with officers Judy Anderson, Ann Gribell, and Betty Jo Patterson. They plan to hold the senior breakfast in the first floor john this year where everyone eats his lunch.

"Bye Bye Birdie" was a smash hit starring Larry Langdon—without his Ray Charles sunglasses.

Ann Gribell is named Homecoming Queen, but Judy Anderson comes back to capture Basketball Queen, with the aid of Judy Bernet as her campaign manager. Bobbie Franzreb has talked her sorority sisters into having a slumber party next year on that night.

As usual we see West Hi's answer to the Bobbsey Twins. Ed Abaecherli and Dave Adams skipping down the hall. At first we wonder why Dave is in such a hurry, but we soon see why as Bill "Cassius Clay" Hansman is in hot pursuit.

Across the street the new assistant football Coach is on his hands and knees looking for his spectacles. He finally spots them under Charlie Greiner's foot.

In the gym office we find the athletic department enjoying the latest edition of the Breeze. Coming out of the shower is shapely Greg Koppenhoefer who has just discovered he is on Candid Camera.

Muscle" Rachford, and Dick "The Bruiser" Schlemmer who are advertising their health studio with the motto: "Don't be a 200 pound weakling."

The fairgrounds have been reached. We return our gas masks to Maschmeyer, put the paper in with the rest of the trash, and set out to explore the fair.

Just inside the entrance gate we see a large neon sign advertising a baby sitting service run by Ken Kleeb, and Don Stevenson. We head first to the livestock exhibits where Joanie Eckert shows off her prize bull "Chippie". Boy Scout exhibits are being displayed by Chuck Hyland's wolf pack number 33⅓, assisted by scout leader Phil Wells. The next tent features a cooking contest where Linda Walker and Sandy Hoyer have been awarded first prize for "Teacher Brownies" (hmmm must be a special kind of flour they use). The odor of these awakens our appetites and we head for the booth run by Ethel "Hash Slinger" Maher who sells delicious Frank-furters. Our thirst is quenched by the fabulous home brew of Mayleben, Keifer, Clark, and Honnicker. Our money is collected by Lynn "The Newk" Newcomer accompanied by her portable cash register. The mall is full of peddlers. We see Bruce Judd in his book mobile selling paper back books to Sherry Jones and Minna Baker. Following Bruce is Marbeth "Goldilocks" Whitney, selling the increasingly popular product "Miss Clairol" to Erwin "Blondie" Raible, Charley "Wow 'Em" Griener, and Paul "Pretty Boy' Tuerck. These industrious business personnel feel much better since Police Chief Durrant has re-located Pat "Fresh" Thomas' deodorant stand to a near by field. This inconveniences his only customer, Frank "Flower" Ritzman.

Our attention is caught by screaming Bonnie Rehme as she shouts that Lyn "Tear 'em up" Harting has challenged the gorilla to a fight. However, we don't give her much of a chance as the last contestant "Mighty" Eugene Enders hasn't regained consciousness yet. In the next cage is a horrible sight. We cringe as we see behind bars Valdis Kukainis "The only Latvian" in captivity (we hope). Next we are amazed at the rotundity of the fat lady "Bopping" Betty Cramer. Complaining of indigestion is fire eater Bobby Baesel. Coming to his aid is Red Cross Nurse Judy "Bubbles" Compton.

So much for side shows, on to the amusements. First we see the merry-go-round run by Bob Cristy. A familiar figure waves to us. That dizzy blond Diana Peace is on her 6,599th revolution. Also busily spinning around are Danny "Trench Mouth" Tuertscher and Bob Graff as they sneak on the ferris wheel operated by the biggest operator of them all, Larry "Chico" Wright. Jim Zimmer's fish pond is next. Swimming along trying to catch fish with her bare hands is Alice Erhardt. In the next booth is the "Basketball Shoot." Aha, what have we here? Chip "The Gunner" Diefel has just spent $43 trying to make a free throw. He's got a disgusted look on his face. At the "Ring Toss" run by Patty Koop and John "Snake" Custer, we try our luck but to no avail. They're tossing all the rings.

We can't spend all day on games of chance, we must go on to more important things—like the race track. Besides we just got a hot tip from Bob "Tex" Longhauser. As we enter the gates Bobbie "Mink Stole" Franzrab frantically pushes by looking for little Chip. We direct her to the basket ball shoot where we are sure Mr. Diefel is still shooting. Beware Bobbie, he'll probably hock your stole so he can shoot some more!

Instead of a trumpet to summon the start of the race we have the delightful duet of Lois Ziegler and Kathy Breunig who join hands and sing "Old Lang Syne," just like good old English class. They have trouble with the high notes because soprano Paul "The Warbler" McCay is away signing dog food commercials.

Entered in the first race are Bill Meissner mounted on Peg Leg, Allan Taylor on Bongo, and Frank Barth on Beer Keg. Our money is on Sue Maisch whose horse has a 25 yard handicap because he has seven legs.

The starter, Judy "Dirty Lens" Anderson shoots the gun and the race is on. We sadly tear up our ticket as we see that good old Judy just shot "Seven Legs" through the heart, narrowly missing Sue.

Since Ken "Sure Thing" Loch bet his last quarter on Seven Legs, we find him in Pat Brunner's Pawn Shop trying with no avail to pawn Joan "Watchless" Ingram. Brunner won't get stuck with anything like Joan but he did offer $5 for the body of Seven Legs!

Anderson won the race since she had four shots left in the gun. We leave this gruesome scene and head back through the midway to the car track. On the way we observe that Lyn Harting has pounded the ape into submission. Well done, Lyn!

Approaching the track we are plagued by another peddler—Nathan Sowels is selling sun glasses and furry steering wheel covers to the race drivers. Assisting Nathan is child apprentice Henry Peters who is only allowed to sell mirror muffs but he hopes someday to be a master muffer.

In the pits we spy Henry "30 Day" Bong tinkering with his six cylinder Buick Special. Careening around the track at a restless pace are Ed "Speed Demon" Schulte, Don "Four Speed" Geise, and James "The Lead Foot" Plunket. Two drivers are already out of the race, "Crashing Corinne" Botto and Ken "Geargrinder" Sullivan have plowed into the spectators, however, no one of importance was hurt. The injured are listed as Rolly Thielman and Marvin "The Lover" Sheets, the latter is still suffering from a henpeck suffered during his senior year.

Finally the injured are taken to the Gary Young Memorial hospital, named for Young who was trampled to death while playing center for the Boston Celtics. Our invalids will not be bored because Grant Meinders ballet school is heading an amusement program. The school is composed of the firehouse five minus one, Randy "Twinkle Toes" Boaz, William "Pirouet" Fair, "Dainty Rick" Bryant and "Graceful" Ed Mangold. The minus one stands for teary eyed George Delano Schaetzle; she has flunked out.

Chief nose surgeon Barb Kohl drops her scalpel as she hears of the modeling show, put on by Greg Koppenhoefer's Charm School. His prized students are Danny Hoffman; John Campbell, and Val Dragin. Linda Heisel, left on the operating table when Barb left, is sorry she can't see the show but chats with future patients Gordy "Make-that-span" Glazer and Lenny "220" Engel. Following Greg's charm school, Diane Wray sings the refrain from her favorite song "He's So Fine" "T. Lange, T. Lange, T. Lange. Since Marilyn Tipton is preparing to give a lecture on home economics, we decide to leave the hospital and return to our scow. It has been turned into a show boat by Sandi "Sweetheart" Moore who is dancing for a Shriner's convention. Seeming very interested are Mickey Cothrin, Jim Byers, John Jones, and George Zorick. Sitting downheartedly by the rail is Dick "Mr. Irresistable" Osborne counting his friends on his thumb. And, as the magnificent sights of Lawrenceburg fade into the horizon we, the writers of this prophecy, feel that's how many friends we have.

And now—a time to enjoy, a time for fun, a time to excel and, to LIVE

We learn to move in crowds without incident, in the warm days find space to rejuvenate ourselves with an exhilerating breath of spring.

Flagbearers take their places at the head of the procession. Twenty junior girls in pastel dresses grasp the Daisy Chain and line up in pairs. Gum Laude members, then the rest of the class fall into line as the Class Day procession slowly winds down the drive and up the walk, through the golden June sunshine and the while flashes of light from parents' cameras. Class Day has finally come, bringing to a close a hectic year packed with games, dances, research papers, chemistry experiments, and tests, tests, and more tests. Class Day exercises over, seniors leave Western Hills filled with conflicting emotions, but leave with the most important lesson that West Hi has taught them—to live vitally, enthusiastically, and more fully aware of the blessings that life has given to them.

A final moment of conversation before the commencement ceremony begins . . . then summer, jobs, and college send graduates different ways.

When the world both challenges and promises, that wondrous time of youth is a time to smile to the infinite delight and mystery of life.

We are going on—swinging bravely forward along the grand high road—

and already behind the distant mountains is the promise of the sun.

—Winston Churchill

Around the world we've looked for you.
We have searched on
When hope was gone
In dreams of catching you.
We knew somewhere, sometime, somehow
We'd find you . . .

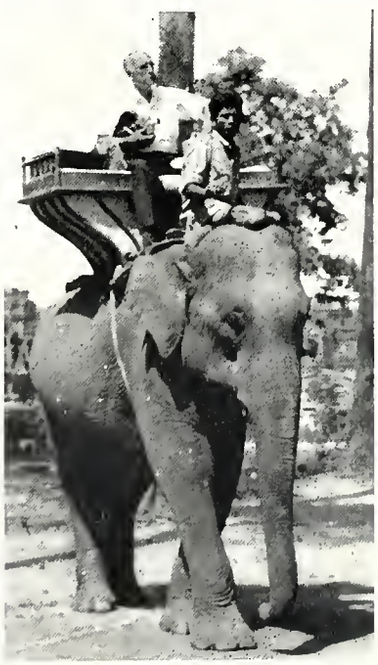
From mountain climbing in the Alps . . .

Around the world with RRB . . .

Our versatile photographer, Mr. Benson had assignments everywhere it seemed—Cambodia, Detroit, the Alps, and occasionally at home in Indiana. Wherever he was, we had only to call him (if we knew where he was), and loyally he would rush to Western Hills to help us. Never did we let him rest—we had layouts to draw, pictures to take, and arguments to arbitrate. With patience and skill he helped settle our "discussions" and shape our incoherent ideas into organized thoughts. Then he was off again, doing promotion work for colleges and business firms. If you see him in Morocco, or California, or the Fiji Islands, tell him there is a phone call from the Western Hills Annual waiting for him at 136 North Delaware Street, Indianapolis.

From racing at the Grand Prix in France . . .

From exploring the jungles of Cambodia . . .



He comes wheeling toward Western Hills.

Acknowledgements

With the enthusiasm and determination typical of people with a purpose, the 1963 Western Hills Annual Staff set forth to produce an outstanding book. Throughout the year we met with many obstacles, some frustrating, some funny; but each bringing a deeper sense of humility and new knowledge to the staff. Our somewhat grandiose ideas of accomplishing our task alone, of publishing the book unaided, failed us often. Gladly we accepted the help of many people, and without their contributions the ultimate product of our efforts, the 1963 Annual, could not have been completed. To these people, therefore, we are deeply indebted:

Indiana School Pictures, for 2700 underclass pictures; Mr. Busch of Shillito's for 400 seniors' photographs; Mr. McTamney for pictures of sports and school events; The Enquirer for the pictures on pages 14-15; Mr. William Bolson of the Cincinnati Board of Education for the pictures on page 113 and 190; Mr. Claude Rost for the football team formal picture; Mr. Herbert Marcus for the photograph of Maryjane Henderson on page 193.

Reverend and Mrs. Ray Tucker; Mrs. Walter; Miss Suter; Landen's Tux Shop; Father Mitsos of the St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church; and the Reverend Willis Alspach of the Emmanual United Church of Christ, who gave us information and valuable help for our special pictures.

Circle Engraving Company of Indianapolis who answered our RUSH! RUSH! (please) orders with amazing speed and efficiency; to The Hurley Company of Camden, Arkansas who patiently catered to our last-minute whims; to Mr. Harold Payne of the Durand Cover Company, who guided our selection of a cover when our regular cover manufacturer went on strike; and the Typographic Service Company of Indianapolis who supplied us with "Optima Roman," our special opening section and insert type imported from Germany.

Contributing writers William Saroyan for our theme statement; Alexander Pope, Francis Bacon, Albert Einstein, and Winston Churchill (who somehow said what we wanted to say better than we could say it.)

The administration, faculty, and staff of Western Hills who seemed to understand that the best laid plans of mice and men and annual staffs often go astray and were unfailingly patient with us.

Mrs. Goodfellow for her invaluable help in choosing the art work to illustrate the theme; Mr. Love, our business advisor, for supervising the monetary affairs of the book and managing to teach even our business manager something about business.

Mr. Duncan Schiedt, of Benson Photo Studios, Mr. Benson's assistant, who tolerantly allowed himself to be dragged around on picture days and, in spite of the staff, took excellent pictures.

Mr. Russell Benson of Indianapolis, who took pictures, gave us ideas — or rather wrung the ideas out of us — drew layouts, etc. etc. etc. etc., and who sparked our ideas with professional creativity and technique.

Miss Weber, our continual source of guidance and inspiration.

She, along with Mr. Benson, molded our enthusiastic but sometimes bizarre ideas into a coherent, logical (we hope) expression of our theme, and let us think that the results were entirely our own ideas. Miss Weber directed, encouraged, and evaluated the writing of the copy in addition to supervising the production of the entire annual.

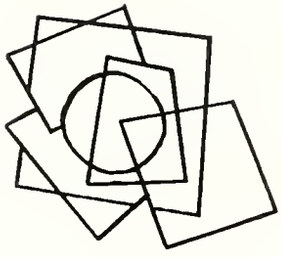
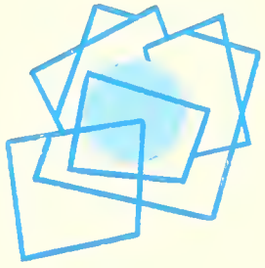
The art work for this book was designed and executed by Irwin Raible, senior, in competition with other art students in the class of Mrs. Marilyn Goodfellow. Numerous designs were submitted, and the staff encountered considerable difficulty in reaching a decision. Not all were satisfied with the final choice. To them we offer this explanation.

You say the buildings look like tenemant houses. Yes, they do. Perhaps they are tenemant houses. Perhaps there are people enclosed within their walls, people who seldom look through the windows to see the rising sun. On the other hand, perhaps these buildings are highrise luxury apartments whose inhabitants gaze from their picture windows on the winding rover below and beyond. Or they may be office buildings full of clicking typewriters and cold and calculating IBM machines. Perhaps even, they are ancient castles. There may be a lonely princess imprisoned in one of the gloomy towers, unable to come forthe into the warmth of the sun. Or YOU may be the one hiding behind a wall of ignorance, or apathy, or laziness. YOU may be the one who needs to seek the light of the sun — to run, to jump, to play, to Live.





Live not within dark walls; welcome the light of the sun
